BST Gets Thumbs Up From FDA Committee

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — Monsanto Company, one of the manufacturers of bovine somatotropin (BST) for use in stimulating cows to give more milk, has overcome what appears to be the last major scientific hurdle in gaining approval of its product for commercial marketing.

Though tempering its statement with caution that it was not issuing a final decision, the Veterinary Medicine Advisory Committee to the Federal Drug Administration on Wednesday issued a "safe" verdict to the use of Monsanto Company's commerical version of BST, Sometribove.

The advisory committee held a public hearing and meeting Wednesday at the Holiday Inn, in Gaithersburg, Md., to review Sometribove within the context of it being able to increase the risk to humans of antibiotics in drinking milk.

While the committee's approval doesn't necessarily guarantee that the product will receive full approval by the Federal Drug Adminstration's Center for Veterinary Medicine (CVM), it does remove some of the last non-political barriers to receiving approval.

According to Gary Stefan, spokesman for the CVM, the agency will consider and review the testimony presented Wednesday in deciding the next step toward approval.

"The drug will not be approved until all questions are adequately addressed," Stefan said.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

EVANS CITY (Butler Co.)—Georgia (Grandma) Marburger remembers when the trolley ran past the processing plant to Mars and stopped to pick up milk. Of course, she remembers. She was born in 1892 and celebrated her 100 years last fall with a party, hundreds of birthday cards, and had her picture on Marburger Farm Dairy milk cartons that are distributed to hundreds of retail stores and all the schools in Butler County.

And while this centenarian, who looks no older than when she was 90, is no longer involved with the family farm and milk business, she keeps track of things and is sure to

PDA Modifies Avian Influenza Restrictions

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff Monday announced modifications to a statewide avian influenza quarantine that will allow poultry exhibitions and live bird marketing to resume.

With conditions.

The current quarantine has been in effect since Jan. 20, resulting from the discovery of a non-pathogenic strain of avian influenza in samples taken from live poultry markets in Philadelphia, New York City and West Newark, N.J.

The modifications are included in amendments to the Pennsylvania poultry quarantine which establish test requirements for exhibi-

Last Call For Dairy Of Distinction

KINGSTON (Luzerne Co.) — Beautiful dairy farmers are being sought for recognition as part of the Dairy of Distinction Program in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and April 15 is the deadline to apply.

Started in 1983, the Northeast Farm Beautification Program recognizes the hard work and dedication of dairy owner/operators who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to 1) promote a positive dairy image; and 2) instill in consumers a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products.

Farms that apply for recognition are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. Animal cleanliness, the barnyard, feed areas and manure management are other aspects of the farm operation taken into consideration.

To qualify, applicants must be actively dairy farming. An application form can be found on page D8 along with full details of the program.

Daylight Savings Time Starts Sunday

Daylight Savings Time officially starts at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning April 4. To follow the old adage of "spring forward, fall back," since this is spring, you will want to advance the clocks around the farmstead one hour before retiring Saturday night. For farmers there is a little more to this yearly ritual. Experts say schedules for feeding animal and especially milking schedules for dairy cows should be advanced gradually over a period of several days. With many cows now milking more than 100 pounds per day, this advice would be important to maintain top production.

Penn State Students Win National Beef Bowl

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Four students from Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science won the National Championship Beef Bowl Competition at a recent meeting of the National Cattlemen's Association in Phoenix.

National in scope, the Beef Bowl is sponsored by the American Cyanimid Company and the National Cattlemen's Foundation. Each invited team must first win a similar competition in its own region. The Penn State team represented the Northeast, the University of Missouri the Midwest, Oklahoma State University the South, and Washington State University the West.

The contest was a double-elimination tournament with questions covering all phases of the beef industry. Much like the old television College Bowl, a team had to buzz in to win the right to try answering each question. Questions on genetics and breeding, nutrition, management, marketing, physiology, and many other topics challenged the competitors.

On the contest's first day, Penn State team members competed in three rounds, beating Missouri

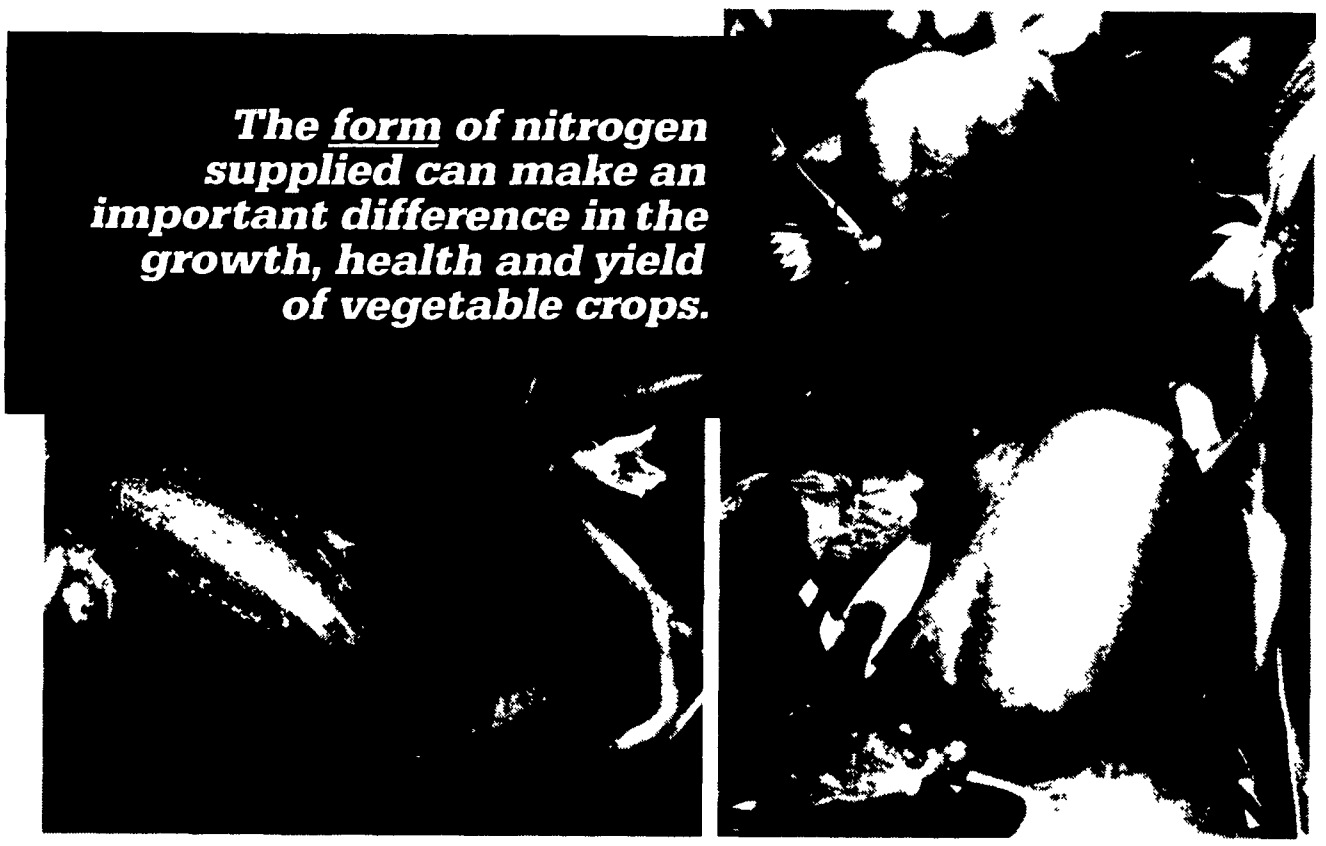
Calcium Nitrate for nutritional excellence and better crop management

Viking Ship Calcium Nitrate fertilizer provides fast-acting nitrate nitrogen; the non-acidifying nitrogen form that is readily available for quick uptake and early, uniform growth. Precise timing. Nitrate nitrogen feeds the plant when needed—on your timetable. This eliminates residual-N problems and promotes better yields, uniform maturity and harvest efficiency. Vital calcium. Young tissues (leaves, stems, and fruit) must have calcium for proper development—better color, firmness and shipping quality. Under cultural situations where water is not limiting, adequate calcium is the key to reducing plant disorders such as blossom-end rot. Calcium Nitrate provides 19% water-soluble calcium.

The form of nitrogen supplied can make an important difference in the growth, health and yield of vegetable crops.



All of these Calcium Nitrate advantages encourage better yields, early and uniform harvests of high quality—the ideal fertilizer for the crop nutrition requirements of modern vegetable production.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

FULL PINK MOON, APRIL 6.

UMBRELLAS: A BRIEF HISTORY

Umbrellas were first used in ancient Mesopotamia as sunshades and were later adopted by women in ancient Greece and Rome In the first century A D., Roman women began oiling their paper sunshades to provide rain protection, and the umbrella as we know it was born But it was not until the eighteenth century that umbrellas became acceptable for men Beginning in 1750, Jonas Hanway always carried an umbrella around London, rain or shine This was seen as effeminate, and he was publicly humiliated and ridiculed, but gradually the stigma faded and the idea took hold When Hanway died in 1786, all proper British gentlemen were using umbrellas

Let it rain in April and May for me

AREA DAIRY FARMERS

On Tuesday, April 6, 1993 at the farm of John Beiler of 12A South Ronks Rd., Ronks, Pa. at 7:00 p.m. - there will be a meeting on health care for the dairy cow. A discussion on using a very successful, natural prevention program will be presented.

John Beiler will discuss how he has used Vita-Min-Lac Products the past three years to control his somatic cell count without the use of drugs and what the products have done for his herd health.

Levi A. Yoder of Ohio, beginning his fifth year with this natural prevention program, will also share what Vita-Min-Lac Products has done for his Percheron mares and his dairy cows in regards to mastitis, high cell count etc. (without needing a veterinarian other than for pregnancy checking). The success of his thirty-five sow, farrowing operation will also be discussed (again, without the need of drugs and high vet expenses)!

Please come and hear what Vita-Min-Lac Products can do for you, without the holding of milk or meat from the market, and keeping your animals on full feed for maximum growth and production.

Be sure and mark your calendars for Tuesday evening at 7:00 at the John Beiler farm!! Refreshments will be furnished, so bring your friends and neighbors with you.

OPINION

The Goal Of Every Farmer

As food safety continues to be a public issue, farmers need to do everything possible to prevent medicine contamination of the milk and meat. Jeremy Rifkin, who heads such anti-animal groups as the Foundation of Economic Trends and the Greenhouse Crisis Foundation, is quoted as saying agriculture is second only to nuclear weapons in the threat that they pose to mankind.

From this statement, you would think we would all be dead by now. Instead, our life expectancy increases by several months each year. Some of this chance for growing older must come from eating good food supplied by the American farmer. But that's another story.

The fact is that the public deserves a safe food supply, and antibiotic residues are contaminants and should not be in the milk or meat that goes on the public dinner table. With this in mind, a quote from Keith E. Sterner, DVM, is in order. Sterner was one of the featured speakers at the NDPC-FDA Regional Joint Milk Conference held recently in Syracuse.

"...the best single treatment for any disease is the one that never occurred in the first place," said Sterner. "This is especially true for mastitis. Given the demands placed on today's dairy farmer, very heavy emphasis must be placed on facilities and management practices which prevent disease and diminish performance associated with it.

"My philosophy is a simple one. Place a cow in a clean, dry environment, feed her properly and keep the 'bugs' on the outside from becoming 'bugs' on the inside. By paying careful attention to the nutrition of the dairy cow, we not only affect her ability to live up to her genetic milk production potential, but also her intrinsic ability to resist infection. By placing emphasis on facilities that keep her comfortable, clean, and dry, we reduce the challenge from microbial pathogens. And by prepping and milking with properly designed, installed and maintained milking equipment and hygienic procedures, we help to ensure that the need for treatment is a minimal one, because the incidence of disease is reduced."

Of course, sickness in animals will sometimes occur. When this happens, use medicines and practices that are right for the situation. But by taking care of the day-to-day "little preventative things," the need for treatments will be reduced. This should be the goal of every farmer.

To Handle Farm Animals With Care

Farm animals need proper care and management, but remember that many domestic animals are physically stronger than humans.

Accidents may hurt both people and animals, and cut into profits.

Protect yourself by being careful each time you work with animals. Wear protective clothes, footwear, gloves, and headgear as necessary. Keep floors and ramps clean and clutter free to ensure good footing. Make sure handling and restraining facilities are up to the task.

Be extra careful with animals that are frightened, hurt, sick or young. Handle males, especially bulls, with respect. Always leave yourself an "out" in case an animal becomes uncontrollable. Know your escape route before entering the pen. Be prepared to go over or under a fence or up a wall. When caring for sick or birthing animals, wear gloves and other protective garb. Do not smoke, eat ,or drink until you have washed and changed clothing after working with animals.

Keep children out of animal barns, feedlots, and other hazardous areas.

To Prevent Poisonings

Children under the age of 5 are the most frequent victims of poisonings. Infants and toddlers are at a higher risk.

Common household items such as medicines, makeup, cleaners, and plants account for most home poisonings. On a farm, where children have a risk of finding pesticides, other chemicals, fertilizers and industrial cleaners, including milk sanitizers, preventing poisonings is even more important.

Many accidental poisoning may be treated safely at home, bu get medical advice first. Find the number of your local poison control center and keep it near your phone.

It is also a good idea to keep Syrup of Ipecac in your home. Because it causes vomiting, Ipecac is a treatment for some types of poisonings. Most drug stores sell it for under $3.

Never give a child Ipecac or anything else without first receiving medical advice.

To Know How To Handle Poisonings

If you suspect a poisoning, stay calm and keep the person calm. Look in the person's mouth and remove any pills, pieces of plant, or other physical objects.

Take the person and the poison or pesticide to a phone and call the poison control center. Be prepared to tell the person's age, weight, the type of poison, and the amount swallowed.

Follow their directions. Never give a person anything without first calling the poison control center or a doctor.

In a poisoning, the best intentions may cause more harm than good.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "You become successful by helping others become successful."

Herds of deer find protection in state and county parks and in large tracts of land where hunting is not permitted. These same deer feed off of farmers crops doing immeasurable damage. They strip bark from trees and destroy expensive plants during snow storms. Motorists traveling the highways, sometimes at high speeds, are often unaware of them and are unable to avoid hitting them when they appear as if from no where. Almost always there is severe damage to the vehicle and often there are personal injuries. Last year at least ninty deer were killed by cars in northern Chester County, one hundred were killed in the Valley Forge area and many were hit in southern Berks County.

Who is responsible for the damage done by these deer? Since they are game, to be hunted under the jurisdiction of the state game commission, it can be said that they belong to the commonwealth.

Now, if a motorist is injured because of a missing guardrail, warning sign, pot hole or low shoulder, he can sue the state for negligence. Using the same logic, why cannot a farmer or a motorist whose property is damaged by the deer sue the commonwealth?

Of course motorists can collect from their insurance for automobile damage done by deer. If a farmer's cows get out and damage a neighbor's property, the farmer's insurance will pay for the damage the first time but not after that. If the deer belong to the state, isn't the state responsible for the

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS THIS ANY WAY TO BE HAPPY?
April 4, 1993

Background Scripture: John 13:1-20.

Devotional Reading: John 13:31-36.

Time and again in the John's Gospel someone whom Jesus encounters seems to misunderstand what he is saying and doing. In John 3, when Jesus said, ". . . unless one is born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God," Nicodemus asks, "How can a man be born when he is old?" (John 3:3,4).

Nicodemus' misunderstanding gives Jesus the opportunity to emphasize the point he is making.

In John 13 it is Peter who misses the point. When Jesus comes to wash Peter's feet, he protests, "You shall never wash my feet!" In Peter's mind it is demeaning for Jesus the Teacher to stoop to wash their feet, performing a task meant for servants. We can understand why Peter reacted as he did — it seemed all wrong for Jesus to humble himself so. And, in light of the values which prevail in our world today, it would still be "all wrong".

What Peter did not understand then and what we often do not realize today is that humble service is not degrading when love is our motive. Love is the key. John says of Jesus, "having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them to the end" (13:1b). Having said this, John goes on to tell us that he "poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet . . ." (13:5). In this act of humble service he did not tell them of his love, he showed them.

PETER JUMPED

So, when Peter tries to dissuade him, Jesus says: "If I do not wash you, you have no part in me" (13:8). To reject this service, says Jesus, is to reject his love. So, Peter, always impulsively jumping to conclusions, jumps to a hasty one: "Lord, not my feet only but also my hands and my head"! And once again Peter has misunderstood: this is not about getting one's feet washed, but about accepting the love that is being offered. The washing of the feet is only a sign. Once again Jesus has to explain: "He who has bathed does not need to wash; but he is clean all over" (13:10). When Christ gives his love to us, we don't have to measure it or ask to double the dose. The benefit is not in how much of the body Jesus washes; this is a qualitative act, not a quantitative one.

Perhaps hardest to understand for Peter is that he expected them to do it too. "If I then, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet". Let's not misunderstand, Jesus is not saying that footwashing is to become normative for his disciples, but humble service is. The foot washing was just the outward example. The love is the inner reality.

TRY IT!

This is what is expected among his disciples. "For I have given you an example, that you also should do as I have done to you". Jesus overturns our human ideas and values, which are based upon "getting", not "giving".

Jesus goes on to say something even more surprising: "If you know these things, blessed are you if you do them" (13:17). If we humbly serve others, we will be happy. "Blessed" means "happy" or "fortunate". We think these things will degrade us, but Jesus assures us that they will uplift us. We are not demeaned by performing humbling tasks, but blessed. According to the world's values, being served makes us happy. According to Jesus, serving is what brings us happiness. He not only said that, but he demonstrated it. Rendering humble service to others: is that any way to be happy? Why not try it and find out for yourself?

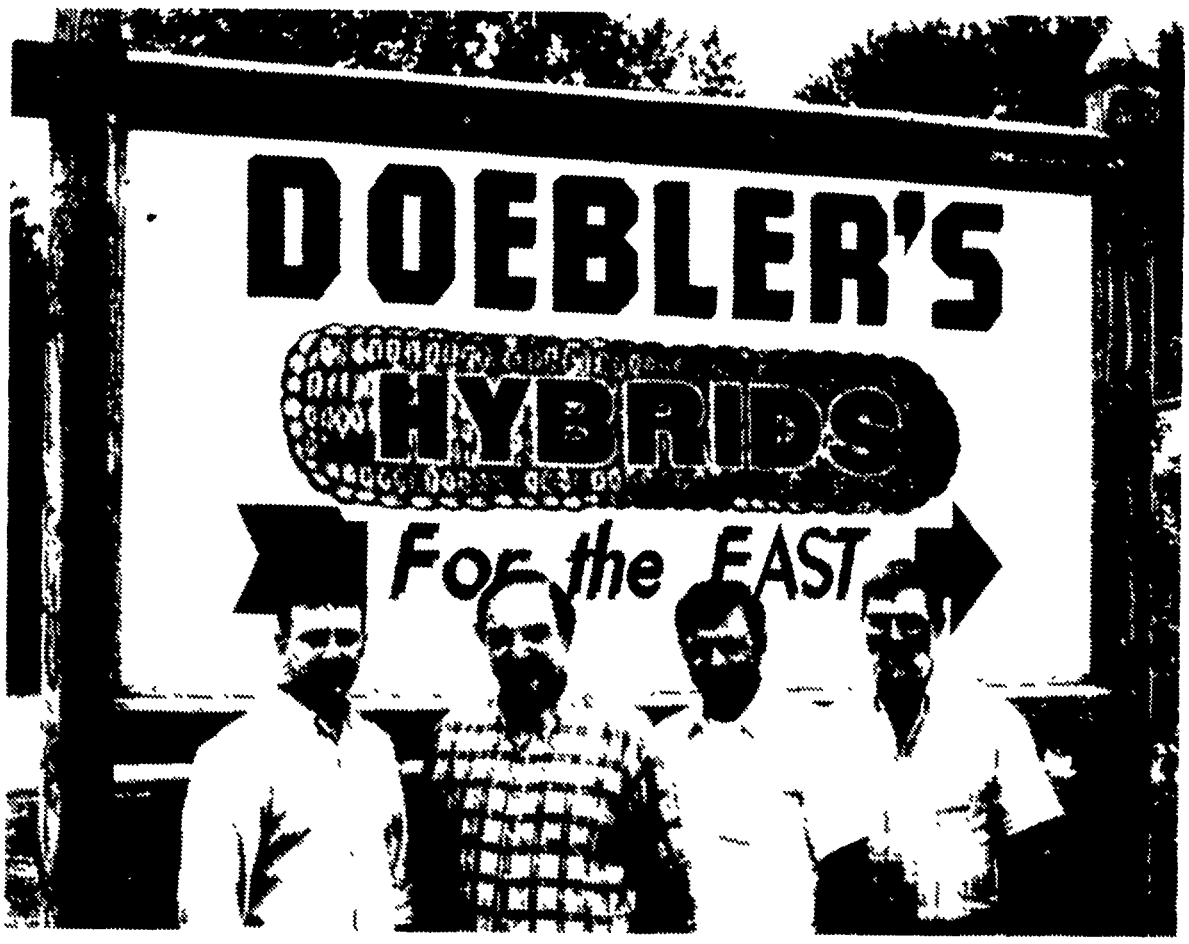
Doebler's Corn Champs

THESE SUPER SINGLES WIN THE GOLD IN 3-YR TRIALS.

By Ted Doebler



I'm Ted Doebler, second from left, with the hands-on managers of Doebler's. They are, from left, my son Taylor, who heads the hybrid nursery; my son-in-law Willard Jones, Doebler's sales VP; and my nephew Bill Camerer, research VP.

It was plain boring at our annual planning session this winter. So I suggested we cut the research budget.

Bill, Willard and Taylor took the bait. They reminded me a Doebler early hybrid didn't break the 100 bushel barrier until 1964.

"Compare that to the new champs," they insisted.

To pick them, the best five yields of every Doebler hybrid were totaled for each of three years. Either 1990-91-92 or 1989-90-91. Then the champs were selected by averaging the Top 15 yields.

I was surprised. Really. Five champs shelled over 200 bushels last fall and a 97-day champ hit 210.5 bu. in 1991.

Research budget wasn't cut, of course. Never will be.

Silage leaders in 1992 trials

A cool fall and a late maturing crop kayoed tonnage in our silage trials but quality was surprisingly good. Here are our 1992 winners:

FULL SEASON -- Two hybrids repeat here. Doebler 944-3 way chopped top yield. 84XP close.

MEDIUM MATURITY -- 75X again No. 1 for tons, TDN, protein. 75XMODIL, 73XP, 66XP, 64XP, 61X and 650A-3 just pounds behind.

EARLY HYBRIDS -- These stood out: 59X, 505A, 370A-3 way, 35XP and 29XA.

How champs run up yields

DOEBLER 84XP, 118 days. Growers keep coming back for more. Great standup. Super disease resistance. Top 15 average 1990-92: 194.1 bu. 1992 best: 200.9 bu.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. PA's all-time corn champ. And our best seller. Big ears. Sturdy stalks. Top 15 average 1990-92: 205.8 bu. 1992 best: 212.9 bu. at Ephrata, Pa.

DOEBLER 69XP, 105 days. Ideal as early corn in full season country. Great stalks. Shrugs off disease. Top 15 average 1990-92: 205.8 bu. 1992 best: 242.0 bu. at Millsboro, DE.

DOEBLER 57XP, 97 days. Sturdy stalk. Fairly long ears. Top 15 average 1989-91: 183.7 bu. 1991 best: 210.5 bu. at Jersey Shore, Pa.; NY best: 182.4 bu. at Sherburne, NY.

DOEBLER 45XP, 92 days. Amazing yields for an early corn. Top 15 average for 1989-91: 172.2 bu. 1991 best: whopping 192.5 bu. in Rensselaer county, NY test; 190.4 bu. at Madrid, NY.

Upgrade your operation and improve your cash flow.

Equipment doesn't last forever. And successful operations have a way of outgrowing their buildings. It's not easy to balance your needs and your cash flow.

Our lease financing program can help extend your capital and provide the necessary tools without restricting your cash flow or goals.

You decide.

With lease financing by Telmark you pick the equipment or machinery, new or used, including buildings. You determine the dealer and the deal. We also offer a TRAC lease for over-the-road vehicles. These decisions are yours.

Then talk to us.

At Telmark our only business is agribusiness. We take into account your seasons and your markets. We'll help make your operation grow with 100% financing and the tax advantages of leasing, Count your advantages.

Leasing benefits vary by individual situation, but the lower net cost can put you ahead of ownership in many ways.

- ◆ No large upfront payment to tie up your capital.
- ◆ Individualized, flexible terms.
- ◆ Credit lines remain undisturbed.
- ◆ Tax advantages.
- ◆ Purchase, renew, or return at the end of the lease term.

Take the next step.

Telmark has leased millions of dollars worth of vehicles, equipment and buildings to thousands of agribusinesses like yours. The best way to find out how the leasing programs will work for you is to visit with your Telmark representative.

Marburger Farm Dairy

ask about what's happening.

Venerated by family, friends and community, Grandma represents the strength of life inherent in both the family and the dairy business. Her brother, Stanley McCandless, who is 93 years old, continues to farm, and if he should live to be 100 like his sister, will have lived in three centuries.

The dairy is a survivor too. The first retail sales were made in the early '30's on a door to door delivery route. As other small dairies went out of business, Marburger's expanded to take up the slack. Now the plant processes 68,000 gal. of whole and low fat milk each week and accepts milk from 63 other farms besides their own herd of 140 registered Holsteins. Milk from their shippers is also delivered to the Wilmington Cheese Plant and the Titusville Dairy for processing into foods such as sour cream, cottage cheese, yogurt, and ice cream mixes. The dairy has a 65 percent Class 1 utilization and does not usually lose shippers unless they go out of business.

The dairy also sells drinks and juices, and these products are manufactured every Wednesday.

Forty-four trucks are on the delivery routes, at least half of which make home deliveries to 8,000 customers. Mom and pop groceries are served, as well as several larger chain-type stores. The milk is offered in schools in Butler County and some in Allegheny County, providing a niee wholesale business for nine months of the year.

The family-owned dairy has been built on a reputation of quality products and empathy for the farm producers who ship milk to the dairy. Whenever possible, they like to buy inputs from their local businesses.

Martin Marburger, 73, still takes an active part in the business, but son and daughter Jim Marburger and Marge Wearing are the principal managers of the operations.

The farm that is part of the operation has been in the Marburger family for 145 years. At first it was a livestock farm that featured Belgian and Percheron horses. Later when the dairy was founded, a landmark bank barn was built, reputedly one of the largest in Pennsylvania. The barn was 88' x 138' and measured 52 feet from bottom to peak. The four barn floors were large enough to pull in loads of hay and straw and circle the wagons to come out again.

The lower stable housed 115 stanchions, a row of box stalls. At the time the 87 milk cows and all the young stock and dry cows could be housed in this barn.

Unfortunatly, on August 8, 1979, an electrical fire lit out across the straw mow, and the beautiful historic structure burned to the ground in 20 minutes. The cows were out in the pasture, and with the help of the milk tester,

This beautiful landmark bank barn on the Marburger Farm Dairy was destroyed by fire in 1979. The historic structure measured 88 feet wide, 138 feet long, and 52 feet high. It contained four barn floors large enough to circle wagons.

Your Farm Credit Banker. Nobody Knows The Field Better.

You'll find Farm Credit Bankers buttoned up, ready to talk short- or long-term loans, mortgages and sophisticated lines of credit.

Underneath the shirt and tie, you'll find the one thing the other banks don't offer. A fellow farmer.

Most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms and got their college degrees from ag schools.

And, if that's not enough, every single one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

That means when you talk to a Farm Credit loan officer about any kind of ag loan, you won't have to waste your time translating to someone who's book smart but farm foolish.

What's more, because Farm Credit loan officers understand farming as well as they understand finances, they're not only smarter, they're faster. After all, they have the same loan closing authority as many local bank presidents.

So when you need competitive rates or creative options, see your local Farm Credit banker. Because nobody knows the field better.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE NOTICE OF AMENDED GENERAL QUARANTINE ORDER OF JANUARY 20, 1993

On January 20, 1993, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Agriculture, adopted a General Quarantine Order due to the presence of H5N2 Avian Influenza pursuant to the authority granted by Section 1702 of the "Administrative Code", Act of June 7, 1923 (P.L. 498, No. 274) (71 P.S.§ 442), Section 6 of the Act of July 22, 1913 (P.L. 928, No. 441), (71 P.S. § 1221) and the Act of April 17, 1929 (P.L. 533, No. 236) as amended by the Act of May 10, 1974 (P.L. 287, No. 87), 3 P.S. § § 3241 et seq. On February 12, 1993, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Agriculture, adopted an Order which amended the General Quarantine Order. Avian Influenza is a disease of domestic poultry caused by exposure to Type A Influenza Virus.

Certain additional amendments to the General Quarantine Order are appropriate to facilitate the safe marketing of live poultry within Pennsylvania. Wereas, this Quarantine Order has heretofore prohibited the marketing of live poultry by livestock auctions and certain other city markets and has prohibited the exhibition of live poultry, these amendments will lift the latter ban and will provide test requirements for the safe marketing of live poultry. These test requirements are the same as those currently required for the interstate movement of live poultry to mid Atlantic and northeastern states. This amendment will provide relief to owners of poultry who cannot currently market their live birds because of the previous quarantine constraints and will provide reasonable premovement assurances that the birds are free of H5N2 Avian Influenza.

Further Information

Further information is available by contacting Dr. Max A. Van Buskirk, Jr., Director, Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110, telephone: (717) 783-6677.

Effective Date

The Amended General Quarantine Order contained in Annex A was adopted on March 25, 1993 and was effective immediately upon adoption. Notice of adoption of the amended quarantine is being provided by publication in full in Lancaster Farming and Harrisburg Patriot News. In addition, the Department is issuing public announcements and press releases regarding the imposition of the quarantine and directly notified numerous affected parties.

Boyd E. Wolff, Secretary
Department of Agriculture

ANNEX "A"
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
AMENDED GENERAL QUARANTINE ORDER

WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has declared and hereby declares that H5N2 Avian Influence is a disease of a dangerous transmissible nature;

WHEREAS, the H5N2 Avian Influenza virus poses a serious risk to the integrity of the Pennsylvania poultry industry and the economy of this Commonwealth;

WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has broad powers to prevent the spread of infectious and communicable diseases and to protect the health and well-being of this Commonwealth's animals including poultry;

WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has evidence of H5N2 Avian Influenza in Pennsylvania poultry and further evidence indicating possible exposure to H5N2 Avian Influenza in poultry entered for show, exhibition or display and poultry present at animal markets;

WHEREAS, a General Quarantine Order was adopted by the Department of Agriculture on January 20, 1993 (23 Pa.B. 541) to prevent the introduction and spread of H5N2 Avian Influenza in Pennsylvania poultry;

WHEREAS, the threat of H5N2 Avian Influenza to Pennsylvania poultry has not abated; and

WHEREAS, the General Quarantine Order of January 20, 1993 provides inadequate diagnostic criteria for the release of poultry and poultry products from H5N2 Avian Influenza special quarantine.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, pursuant to the authority granted by Section 1702 of the "Administrative Code", Act of June 7, 1923 (P.L. 498, No. 274) (71 P.S. § 442), Section 6 of the Act of July 22, 1913 (P.L. 928, No. 441), (71 P.S. § 1221) and the Act of April 17, 1929 (P.L. 533, No. 236) as amended by the Act of May 10, 1974 (P.L. 287, No. 87), 3 P.S. §§ 341 et seq. promulgates the following Amended General Quarantine Order for the prevention, control and eradiction of contagious or infectious diseases including H5N2 Avian Influenza.

1. No live poultry greater than one week of age may be transported within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, except direct to a federally inspected slaughter establishment, unless the following conditions are met:

A. The live poultry originates and moves directly from an Avian Influenza monitored source as established by the Department; or

B. The live poultry is accompanied by an approved health certificate certifying that the birds represented thereon originate from a source flock in which a random sample of ten birds has been blood tested negative for H5N2 Avian Influenza using the agar gel immuno diffusiuon test and that said tests were conducted within ten days of the date of movement.

2. No truck and no coop, cage, crate or other conveyance may enter a farm in Pennsylvania for the purpose of removing eggs or live poultry unless that truck and/or the coops, cages, crates or other conveyances are in a sanitary condition. For the purpose of this Order, sanitary condition shall mean that the truck, coop, cage, crate or other conveyance of live poultry has been cleaned and disinfected prior to its arrival on the farm and that egg packing materials must be new, unused or sanitized impervious materials. The Pa.DHIA spring technician conferences started April 1 and will continue through the end of the month.

The conferences held in April for the Pa.DHIA technicians are one of three conferences held throughout the year.

The meetings are done as part of the field services of the National DHIA Quality Certification program. It is mandatory for technicians to attend this meeting to keep his or her official certification necessary to test dairymen on DHIA.

The spring conference is organized so that the meetings are in 14 different locations and 14 different days throughout April. Technicians may attend the meeting according to their schedule.

Field Director Dean Amick and Training Coordinator Bob Ormsby are to travel around the state with an agenda full of updates and will communicate to the technicians the education aspects of DHIA. An important benefit to the technician with these small group meetings is sharing their thoughts, concerns, and ideas with the field director.

As the month kicks off, Harry Fritz, region manager for the southeastern part of the state begins his series of meetings on April 1 through April 6; Diane McIlwain, region manager for the northeastern part of the state, is to hold technician meetings April 12 to April 15; in the southwestern region, Larry Hay is to hold meeting April 20 through April 22; and from April 27 to April 29, David Bigelow is to hold meeting for technicians in the northwestern and central parts of the state.

The conferences should start with a 10 a.m. showing of a video on retirement followed by questions on payroll and billing, to be run by the region manager.

The manager is to follow with a talk about professionalism and the need for product knowledge, customer service, and product promotion and SCC testing.

Next is to be a round-table discussion run by Dean Amick on past and current practices, and the future.

During lunch there is to be a technician recognition program included.

Immediately afteward, the region manager is to talk about milkweight accuracy and bulk tank comparisons.

Amick is to then present a review on meter repair and accuracy and a look at variables.

Bob Ormsby is to speak next on the Header Page, member services, and alternate AM/PM testing.

The region manager is to follow with a presentation of the new member handbook and also cover updating of the technician manual and the package services notebook.

Ormsby is to then talk about quality certification issues, followed by a talk on current laptop computer technology (QBS, DC 305, Westfalia DP).

At 3 p.m., Amick is to finish the converence with a final review and answer period.

Each of the meetings are scheduled from 10 a.m. through 3 p.m. Anyone with questions should contact their region manager or call 1-800-325-2720.

A meeting was held April 1 at the Millerstown Fire Hall for techicians in Cumberland, Juniata, Perry, Dauphin and Snyder counties; and April 2 at the Cross Keys Motor Inn and Restaurant for technicians in Adams, Franklin and York counties.

On Monday April 5, for technicians in Bucks, Chester and Montgomery counties, a meeting is set at the Comfort Inn along Rt. 10[illegible]

On Tuesday, April 6, at the Blue Mountain Family Restaurant, located off of I78 at Exit 8, technicians from Lebanon, Berks, Schuylkill and Norhtampton counties are to meet.

Cuts more than hay. Cuts time.

New Idea 5212 Disc Mower Conditioners cut a big 11'9" swath and condition with 9'6" intermeshing rolls. It's a wider version of our well-known 5209. With it, you cut and condition lots of hay...every trip. And that means you cut time.

Because the New Idea modular disc cutterbar design makes routine maintenance simple and, although unlikely, repairs a breeze; there's less downtime, too.

Best of all, you'll find our disc mower conditioners are just one segment of our hay equipment line. Others include round balers, disc mowers, sickle mowers and mower conditioners, rakes and hay handling equipment.

Penn Gate Beautician Clara Is Grand Champion

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A pair of 5-year-olds captured the grand and reserve grand champion honors of the 40th state Holstein Spring Show, held last Friday in the Large Arena of the state Farm Show Complex.

Judge Dennis Patrick, of Woodbine, Md., said, "The quality really ran deep in all classes. Those two pair of animals, both the senior and junior champions, could stand up to quite a bit of competition."

There were 106 heifers entered in the show and 120 cows, according to state Holstein officials.

Penn Gate Beautician Clara, owned by Steve and Chris Wood, of Penn Gate Farm in Littlestown, was also the open class bred and owned animal of the show. Clara is an August 1988 Beautician daughter to Penn Gate Jetstar Clara.

The reserve grand champion was Solid Gold Rotate Easter, an April 1988 Arlinda Rotate daughter to Fair-Hill Sexation Eclipse-B, owned by Mike and Cindy Weimer.

Taking both the premier exhibitor and premier breeder awards was Gor-Wood-D Farm, of Mansfield, owned by Gordon and Dorothy Wood.

The Woods showed quite a few top placing cows in their classes and also took the top honors for produce of dam, best three females, and the 100,000 pounds milk production class. The top 100,000-pound production animal was Gor-Wood-D Prophet Fayne. The Woods also showed an animal which captured third place.

Those class wins are important: the state Holstein Association sponsors the Spring Show, a regional show, and a Fall Show and awards points that can be used toward earning All-Pennsylvania status for a cow.

Burdette's animal took second to Sparling's in the winter yearling class. Windy-Knoll-View Petrina-ET is a Blackstar daugther to his parents' well-known Windy-Knoll-View Ultimate Pala which did well on the circuit last year.

Youth division tallies are kept and winners recognized during the show. However, the distinction is made more through record keeping and animal entries, as the youth compete within the realm of the open show.

The youth division grand champion was also a five-year-old cow, C-Alnor Jet Mandy, a June 1988 daughter to Astro Jet daughter owned by Beth Duncan. Mandy had placed sixth in the 5-year-old open division class competition, having to compete against the show's open grand and reserve grand champions.

The reserve grand champion of the youth division was a 4-year-old cow owned by David Day, Bendy Brook Odyssey Favorite, an October 1988 cow which also finished sixth in the open division class competition.

Justin McMurray showed the best animal, bred and owned, in the youth division.

Holstein Association officials said they wanted to extend special thanks for helping to put on the show to Aliene "Dick" Thompson, Eldon Ford, Ben Wilson, Tracy Wellar, Jed Beshore, Art Salisburg, George Cashell, Leslie Peters, Lesa Snyder and Sue Beshore.

This year's spring show also had a different twist: While the show was ongoing, concealed behind a dividing curtain, half of the arena was being converted into an indoor soccer ring.

At one time a wayward soccer ball did find its way onto the cow side, but was returned by a very young Holstein enthusiast. As soon as the show ended, work crews

- AerWay-ing Pays
- Increases yield and quality
- Important part of intensive hay and pasture management
- Helps conserve valuable soil, fertilizer and water.
- Reduces compaction
- Improves manure management
- Reduces run-off
- Promotes extended stand life

"This year we ran the Aer-Way over half the land where we had harvested corn silage. We then spread between 4,000-5,000 gallons of liquid manure per acre and disked the seed bed to prepare for small grains. We were absolutely amazed at the difference where we used the Aer-Way and one disking. My non-Aer-Wayed ground was disked 3 to 4 times and still wasn't as good. I would recommend the Aer-Way to other farmers as it softens the ground and lets rain and manure penetrate instead of running off."
W.W Sandford III - Kenwood Farm Orange, Virginia

"Earlier this spring, I used the Aer-Way Implement and Aer-Way chain harrow on my rolling pastureland. This was done to open up the ground to get water into the sloping grasslands. At the same time I pulled the Aer-Way chain harrow to scatter the cattle manure around. Even after the dry summer we had, I noticed that the Aer-Wayed ground held the moisture better and we got thicker and taller regrowth where we ran the machine."
Dr. Rex Wilhelm D.V.M., Stuart, Iowa

"I have better pastures since I started using the Aer-Way to aerate and renovate my pastures. Using the Aer-Way has helped me get the nutrients where they are needed. I would not recommend fertilizing or liming without running the Aer-Way first."
Sandy Fisher, Brookview Farm - Beef Cattle Operation Manakin-Sabot, Virginia

In other news, the Huntingdon County Holstein Club held its reorganization meeting and elected Jim Grove, of Petersburg, to serve as president. Elected to vice president was James McMath II, of Shirleysburg, while the office of secretary-treasurer was awarded to Harry Gensimore, of Tyrone.

In other business, the board discussed its annual fair project; concluded that support was needed to help offset the cost of using the county fairgrounds by agricultural and youth organizations at times other than fair week; and reported that its cheese sale fund raiser was going well, but there was still plenty of cheese available for selling.

Gov. Proposes More WIC Funds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Robert Casey has proposed additional funding for the Women, Infant and Children (WIC) Farmer's Market Coupon Program which permits the use of coupons to purchase fresh vegetables and produce from the state's farm markets.

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program issued a statement recently that praised the proposal, by did not specify the amount of the proposed increase.

The Vegetable Marketing and Research Program helped to fund the coupon program when it was first started as a pilot in 1989.

According to the news release, "Not only does it mean extra sales for farm markets across the state, but it provides quality, nutritious Pennsylvania-grown produce to members of our society who need it most: women with infants and children."

One of the goals of the marketing program is to encourage incrased consumption of the state's vegetables.

Also supporting the praise, according to the news release, the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association also joined in supporting the increased funding proposal.

most of the young stock was released in time to save themselves. Seven animals were lost.

This tragic fire happened 69 years to within one day of when the barn on the farm had burned in 1910.

George Cudoc, manager of the 380 acre farm that is part of the dairy operation, had come to manage the dairy herd 15 months before the barn fire. It wasn't long before he saw that to accomplish good things with a dairy herd, you also needed some control over inputs, especially feed. Before long, Cudoc was named manager of the whole farm operation, and this city-boy, Penn State graduate with a degree in animal science, took on the management of the farm.

Although the circumstances of the barn fire were unfortunate, Cudoc got the opportunity to design the new barn to his specifications.

"I'm probably the luckiest city boy that ever happened out of the city," Cudoc said. "I was born and raised in Pittsburgh for the first eight years of my life. Not many people have the opportunity to do what I do with that kind of background. Nevertheless, I had the opportunity to design the barn and the operation, so I can't complain about it."

The present herd of 130 to 140 milk cows is housed in free-stalls with milking in a double-six parlor. The drive-through barn accommodates TMR feeding and facilities for separation of the milking herd into four groups. After experimenting with other group separations according to production, Cudoc has increased production with the present groupings that include: a post-fresh group of 0 to 60 days in milk; a high production group over 60 days in milk and over 70 pounds of milk production; a group of all two-year-old heifers; and a low end, late lactation group.

Cudoc calls the change to separate the two-year-old heifers into a group away from the older cows has been the most important management decision to increase production that he has made. Heifers now average 18,000 lbs. to 19,000 lbs., 4,000 lbs. of milk more than when they did not have their own group.

Another increase in production was experienced when open water troughs were installed and supplied from a holding tank in the barn. With this more free access to water, the cows drank an unbelievable amount of additional water. And very recently, this water is now warmed from the milk that passes through a newly-installed plate cooler on the pipeline between the milking parlor and the bulk tank.

Tremendous strides have been made in production. In 1978 when Cudoc came to the farm, the cows were not on test. Today, the rolling herd average is at 21,500 lbs. of milk and more than 40 cows in the herd have lifetime production records of more than 100,000 lbs.

The young stock are housed in a separate barn on another farm, and the new heifer management program from Pennsylvania DHIA has been successfully used for identification and compiling records for a group of 43 heifers sold to California. The buyers had all the health and ID information they needed on the heifers and a printout of the dam's individual lactation pages from the State DHIA office which supplied the background information.

"We don't always sell heifers, but when we do, we do it kind of in a big way," Cudoc said. "The heifer management program basically had the record work done before I started. From a similar experience six years ago when we sent 63 heifers to Florida, I know the program saved several days work and eliminated a lot of head scratching and digging in books."

Cudoc has some definite goals for the future of the farm he manages, not so much in production goals because top records are not as important to him as profitable production. Much of the success in the present operation has been from placing the right people in positions of responsibility and helping them do the best job in their area of responsibility. For example, the herdsman only works with the cows and does not do field work. Another person manages the equipment and feeding.

But as for being a good environmental neighbor, Cudoc has definite goals. "With the urban expansion from Pittsburgh into our neighborhood, we need to make the farm environmentally friendly, consumer friendly and friendly with our neighbors if we are going to be in a survival situation," Cudoc said. "We have a major stream that runs through our farm, and I would feel very badly if somewhere down the line that creek flows into another one and a small town is drawing water from the stream and finds it is unusable from contamination that happened here.

"You can farm profitably and also be environmentally safe. We switched to no-till corn. In the past three years we have not plowed an acre of corn ground. That's a big step to help the environment. We don't get leaching of nitrogen or manure and we keep the soil. I think that's important. The next step is to go no-till on small grains and alfalfa. I think if managed right it can be done.

"You see how close we are to people, and we have a good rapport with our neighbors. We try to do a good job with the cattle to keep a positive aspect to the dairy. Thousands of kids go through the farm each year. It's part of their education. We must start with the kids. You can't have a negative attitude of what a farm is as a kid and erase that as an adult. The attitude usually grows worse."

As a state director of Pennsylvania DHIA Cudoc, says he has changed his view since he has been involved. "I have always been a true believer in doing what's best for the member," Cudoc said. "DHIA is not anything before the member. The member is number one. As to the discussion if DHIA benefits only the member or all dairymen, I think it should aid all dairymen.

"DHIA not only gathers information, but also develops programs to put that information to use. USDA, Extension, bull studs or breed organizations, it doesn't matter, all must benefit the dairymen on the farm. The biggest change has to be to the response to not just the member but the dairymen overall.

"Second, the system must change. There has been too much delegation of police type activities to DHIA organizations. DHIA needs to lead in programs that are best for the dairymen, and they very much have their hands tied if they must spend their time developing rules and regulations on how to stop people from altering records.

"All dairymen must be included in the information system and vastly increase the statistical information. We need to have all the cows in the system, not just the ones presently on test. If you have all the records in the system, the vastly increased number of records in the system averages out the bad records that happen.

Removing state lines will help that. More cows and dairymen will come into the system. I don't see anything wrong with including private testors in the system. Some people don't want to belong to a cooperative. We have a lot of good neighbors and friends who have lost a lot of money dealing with milk cooperatives. In some situations, people are loyal to a local organization. We are like that. We try to purchase from people in our county as much as we can, and we hope they purchase back from us.

"I really think that as more of the system becomes more open on who can be part of that system, you will sift out a lot of the problems on how to regulate it. When you regulate people, you just make them smarter on how to get around the system.

"I don't like my role as a person setting policy on policing. I want to help make something more usable to the dairymen. As you do that, more dairymen will want to belong to the organization."

"The dairymen is the ultimate gainer or loser with DHIA information. It doesn't matter what information you have, you take all that's available and find what works in your facility," Cudoc said. "We have found, like most other farmers, you need to pay attention to details. Someone on the farm needs to know how to correct the problem before it happens. You can't play catch-up in farming. You'll never survive."

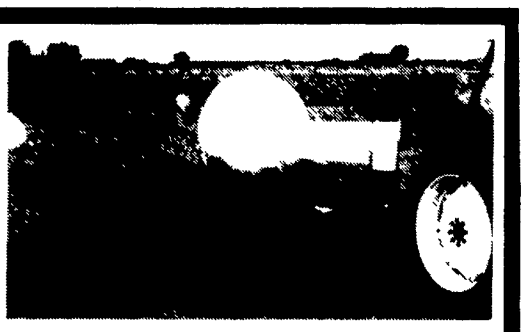
TOP 10 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY A TANCO BALE WRAPPER



TANCO	COMPETITION
1. Five (5) points of support on turntable: Four heavy duty rollers add stability and support to the perimeter of the turntable in addition to the main central shaft. This allows Tanco wrappers to safely wrap the heaviest silage bales on rough or uneven ground.	Competition uses one central shaft to support the entire turntable mechanism.
2. Single solid belt on turntable: The single belt enables Tanco wrappers to effectively wrap misshapen or soggy bales providing a positive surface for bale rotation.	Competition uses either no belts between rollers, or multiple belts which can allow bales to sag and slip.
3. Adjustable extendable axle: On trailed models the extendable axle provides a wide, stable wheel base when loading bales. Eliminates the need for counterweights.	Competition must add counterweights or tandem axles as options to effectively handle silage bales.
4. Top rollers on turntable: Extra rollers provide security to keep bales in place when wrapping at high RPM's (25) or on uneven terrain.	Competition - None.
5. Unloading ramp on trailed models: The ramp allows bales to be unloaded gently. When a wrapped bale falls hard it can "burp". Once it "burps" the bale does not re-seal. The ramp gives a smooth transition between the ground and turntable.	Competition - optional drop mats are available.
6. Turntable braking System: When unloading wrapped bales its important that the turntable doesn't move out of position. A twisted turntable can offload a bale crooked, exposing it to possible tearing of plastic on frame parts. Tanco machines are equipped with a braking system that holds the turntable in place when unloading bales.	Competition - either no system, or rely on hydraulics to hold the turntable.
7. Film indexing system: As temperature rises, plastic stretches more. To ensure proper overlap and complete coverage when it's hot outside, Tanco machines are equipped with an exclusive, simple, indexing system to compenstate for those times. The operator can eliminate potential "windows" in the wrapping procedure.	Competition - None.
8. Positive bale positioning: while being wrapped, bales are rotated the exact distance required to obtain optimum coverage.	Competition uses continuous hydraulic advance. Bales can slip or over-rotate giving an uneven wrap.
9. Durability: Tanco's subframe is the heaviest of any machine available in North America. The low profile design keeps silage bales closer to the ground with a low center of gravity for stability. Tanco's features are the result of years of experience and input from hundreds of individual, and commercial users in Europe.	Competition - Compare.
10. Prices: From a basic 3 point Model AW200, to the trailed Model AW400 with automatic cut & start, bale and batch counter, and tractor seat controls, Tanco prices for 1993 are lower than ever. Pay less for more features and durability than any other bale wrapper on the market.	Competition - Compare.

BST Gets

Dr. Bob Collier, representative for Monsanto who also testified repeatedly before the advisory committee, called Wednesday's decision, "A great victory. I'm very happy with the outcome. I think the committee has given a very positive sign. I'm looking foward to full approval."

While several companies have created their own versions of synthetic BST using biotechnology, each has had to perform its own tests and trials on the efficacy and safety of BST for submission to the FDA for review. Monsanto has been working with BST for more than seven years.

BST has been controversial because it represents new medical technology that is designed to increase animal performance, not cure a specific ill, because of fears that dairy prices will plummet from a milk glut, and because some people find conflict with the message it sends to youth — society tells youth to turn away from using drugs to increase performance, or for recreation, and at the same time looks to use drugs to increase performance for profit.

However, at the onset of Wednesday's hearing, it was made clear that any testimony which did not specifically address the issue of increased mastitis, the incidence of antibiotics, or the risk to human health, would not be allowed.

Nevertheless, several speakers representing anti-BST organizations or constituencies strayed from the subject to pontificate on ideology.

Wednesday's hearing and meeting represented a long process of review. Dr. Gerald Guest, director of the Center for Veterinary Medicine, said that the volume of data and work submitted by Monsanto in its application for approval represented one of the most complete and intensive compiliations received by the agency.

Monsanto happened to be the first company to get this far along in the process. The Monsanto product is called "Sometribove."

The bottom line issue before the 13-member advisory committee was whether there could be inferred any risk to the health of the consumer from using BST to stimulate cows to produce extra milk.

While a direct correlation is not apparent, the question was raised as to the possibility that using BST could lead to an increased risk of antibiotics showing up in the consumer's milk supply.

Antibiotics are of particular concern because there is a segment of society, estimated from 3 percent to 10 percent, which reacts allergically to exposure to penicillin-type antibiotics.

Though there was no case presented of people having ever suffered from reactions to antibiotics in milk they drank, it was reported that in four cases antibiotic-like substances in carbonated beverages had caused allergic reactions in people.

The link between the use of BST and antibiotics was made in a review by the General Accounting Office, the investigative agency of the U.S. Congress.

A cause-and-effect scenario was proposed by the GAO that, since there has been shown to be a statistical increase in mastitis among cows treated with Monsanto's BST, and since the majority of clinical mastitis cases are treated with penicillin-like antibiotics, then there could be an increased risk of consumer exposure to antibiotics in milk.

BST Gets Thumbs Up

At the end of the day-long hearing, the advisory board concluded, though not without dissent, that although there is a real increase in the incidence of mastitis in dairy cows treated with Sometribove (BST), it is insignificant and managable and does not present any increased risk to the consumer.

The 13-member board consisted of seven representatives from various fields of applied veterinary medicine, six consultants and an executive secretary, Richard Geyer, deputy director for the Office of Surveillance and Compliance for CVM.

The dissent came from Dr. Debra Aaron, with the Department of Animal Sciences, University of Kentucky, and Dr. Howard Rosenfeld, a consumer representative from Lawrenceville, N.J.

Aaron said she had started her career in Washington D.C. working for Consumers Union, one of the organizations which has protested the approval of the product. She also said she didn't know anything about cows, though she still issued concern.

Both Aaron and Rosenfeld called for the committee to delay issuing a decision, for up to six months or more.

However, after taking several polls of committee members, is was unanimously agreed that enough data and research had been presented by Monsanto that no further amount of information would be necessary in making a decision.

It was noted by several that the only additional information that could possibly be enlightening would be to have a 20- to 30-year study done to examine any possible, though not indicated, long term dangers to humans.

The committee meeting was structured so that during the first hour, members of the FDA CVM, which had already issued a tentative position that it did not find a significant risk to humans, were permitted to present the reasoning behind their findings.

Dr. Guest outlined the structure and the purpose.

"CVM has tenatively concluded that indirect risk relating to public health is not significant, because it can be managed," he said, but then added that theirs was a tentative finding and that it was up to the committee to find its own position.

CVM's Dr. Pamela Chamberlain discussed the specifics of establishing safety parameters for toxicology to humans, since the product was being reviewed for possible effects on humans. She showed in her presenatation how overly cautious the standards are: standards are set so that average milk consumption is increased by three times normal for the highest-consuming age group; the potential human sensitivity to antibiotics is exaggerated by a minimum of 100 times, up to 1,000 times; minimum withdrawl times are also extended beyond normal residue to further reduce any possible subcomponent residue.

Dr. G. A. Mitchell discussed the federal milk monitoring program which has been established to prevent antibiotics from getting into milk.

He reviewed the program from the labeling of all drugs, the regulations for testing, that 100 percent of all tankers are tested for antibiotics, etc.

Dr. Robert Condon, also with the CVM, reviewed the data on the incidence of mastitis and showed that while there was a statistical increase in the amount of cases, the real difference was not significant considering all the causes of mastitis. He said that the weather has a far greater impact on the number of mastitis cases than BST.

The doses of BST suggested for commercial use would be a 500 mg injection every 14 days starting from the ninth week into lactation for a period of about 252 days total during a 305-day lactation.

Currently, the majority of all cow illnesses, mastitis included, show up before BST would be injected, mainly because the cow is most vunerable then, with a drastic change in feed, environment and metabolism.

Of the public testifying, 26 people presented opinions.

Those testifying against its approval included U.S. Rep. Bernard Sanders, Vt., who, despite the request to keep testimony relevant, decried the need for BST because of its impact on the dairy family farm and because it didn't cure anything.

Also opposing BST were Dr. Michael Hansen with the Consum-

Chester Co. Extension

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Property taxes and farming are not a good match.

Farmers in Chester County are nervous today when they hear words like millage increase, government and school budget increases, and especially, re-assessment.

Property taxes, which may have been fair in Colonial days when large land owners such as George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were the richest people in the community, no longer relate to a person's ability to pay.

It is time for a change in state law to align taxation to income rather than land ownership. If not, the beautiful farms that make Chester County a special place to live will gradually disappear, replaced by row after row of houses.

So, what should dairymen and other farmers be doing about this dilemma?

The best solution is to shift some of the tax burden from real estate to income as mentioned above, but that takes action by the state legislature.

Farmers should continue to petition their representatives for legislation to correct this problem. However, don't expect overnight action, because this topic has been debated for years with little or no results.

Another method to deal with the problem is to get some relief through either of two reduced assessment laws. Act 515, an open space program, has been used in Chester County for over 20 years to preserve open space by offering a lower assessment of land over 10 acres.

This translates into lower taxes, but there is still no limitation on millage increases by schools, townships and the county, so tax bills gradually creep up.

Act 319, a farmland assessment program, also offers reduced assessments on the land and is determined by a formula based on the productivity of the various soils on that farm. This program has not been widely used in Chester County because the agricultural values for the land have not been updated in 15 years. They are based on farm prices in the late 1970s which were considerably higher than today's prices.

County government is now considering new values based on current farm income and expenses for three major crops — corn, wheat and hay — at four different yield levels.

This concept is fairer than some present values because it relates the assessment to the quality of the soil on each farm. An acre of soil capable of only yielding 90 bushels of corn, 30 bushels of wheat, or 1.5 tons per acre of hay will have a lower assessment than an acre of Class I soil producing 150 bushels of corn, 50 bushels of wheat or 4 tons of hay.

The owners of lower class soils would pay less taxes because of the lower yields and lower income that could be realized from an acre of that soil.

Both Act 515 and Act 319 have some limitations, such as roll-back taxes that are due if the use of the land is changed to lessen the restrictions on splitting off lots or building on sections of the farm. Also, farm buildings and the farmhouse are not eligible for reduced assessments. However, until something better comes along, they partially help to reduce the tax burden.

Farmers need to continually urge state and county government officials to change the tax laws and to use what help is presently available to ease the tax burden on real estate.

When reassessment takes place in Chester County, it is essential that Act 515 assessments be kept low and that new current farmland values be adopted for Act 319 so that farmers have a choice of the programs that are fair and that suit their operation.

Farmland assessment may be only a small piece in the puzzle to preserve agriculture in Chester County, but all opportunity must be explored. Let's hope state and county government takes the appropriate action soon.

DHIA Standardized 150-Day Milk

Dairy farmers are anxious to learn how much milk their cows are averaging per day. They also want to know if production is going up or going down, and there are some good reasons why they want to know this. First of all, it helps to determine the size of their milk check. It also serves as a guide for grouping and feeding cows. And, it indicates how the herd has responded to management and to its environment.

Many things affect cows' milk production from day to day, and from month to month, some of which are:

1. Days in milk;
2. Environment- housing and climatic conditions;
3. General care and management of the herd;
4. Feeds- kind, quality and availability;
5. Cow physiology and disorders - infections, injuries, reproductive status, etc.

How well is your herd doing this month compared to the last month or two, or compared to a year ago? Did a change in feed or a change in the feeding program have any effect on production? Was it beneficial to house the herd during the heat of summer? How much impact did tunnel ventilation have on summer milk production?

Average daily milk production per cow can help provide some answers to these questions. These figures are found on the Penna. DHIA Herd Summary II report, and on the Raleigh DHIA Herd Summary Report, a portion of which is shown in Table 1.

Table 1. (Note to the editor: Table 1 is the enclosed Yearly Production and Mastitis Summary. Two identical tables are enclosed; one lighter and one darker. Choose the one most appropriate for your use.)

Most of us are very familiar with test-day average milk per cow for cows in milk. It shows what the milking herd actually produced on test day. However, it is NOT the best figure for evaluating or comparing the effect that feed, management, weather and the environment have on cows' average daily production because of the influence that days in milk have on production. A more accurate figure to use is the standardized 150-day milk. It is an estimate of what cows actually produced, or will produce, at 150 days in milk. Thus, it helps to eliminate variations in average daily milk that are causesd by days in milk. Let's compare data in Table 1 as an example.

Average test-day milk for the milking herd reached a high of 74.2 pounds per cow per day in December. Then, it slid downwards for six straight months, bottoming out at 57.8 pounds in June. This 16.4 pound drop is enough to catch anyone's attention and cause them to ask some serious ques-

State Jersey Breeders Meet

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — "You create an excellent product, and it's easy to tell consumers to use more of it," Betsy Dupuis, communications director for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program told Jersey breeders at their annual meeting March 26.

"Cheese has been the hero for the dairy industry," she continued. In-store promotions of cheese raised sales by 30 percent, she said, which pleased store owners and dairy farmers alike.

In 1983, there was a 17 billion pound surplus of dairy products; by 1991, that surplus had been reduced to 8.7 billion pounds. In that same time period, production increased 11 billion pounds. "We've been playing catch-up since 1983," Dupuis said.

She said that the three states ahead of Pennsylvania in dairy production — Wisconsin, California and New York — all have mandatory promotion plans, while Pennsylvania does not.

"You as producers have a lot at stake in the dairy referendum," she said.

Later in the program, held at the Chambersburg Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Dupuis received an award from the Jersey youth for her work as youth advisor.

Also recognized for their service to the youth were Doug and Beth Reinhart of Quest-End Jerseys, Chambersburg. They chaperoned the youth at the national convention in Louisville, Ky.

Jersey youth also received awards at the meeting.

destruction caused by the deer?

The deer population in areas of Chester County and southern Berks County is immense. Park lands have a very large number of deer. Little is being done to control it. These deer are well fed and healthy from feeding on farmers crops and have two and sometimes three off spring a year. They are also smart and catch on to hunters quickly and retreat into protected areas only to return when it is safe to destroy more crops.

The wishy-washy comments from these deer worshippers are futile. Having been in two collisions with deer on no fault of my own with extensive damage done to my car, and having seen the destruction of crops, I cannot sympathize at all. Putting things in the proper perspective, something rational has to be done to control the deer.

Prolonging the doe season and making more doe licenses available and more accessable to purchase is extremely important. Opening up park land for a few days of controlled hunting is necessary. Owners of large tracts of land that is usually protected should permit a few days of hunting on their land. I have even heard that animal lovers were buying up the doe licenses to keep them away from bonified hunters.

The restrictions on private land owners who attempt to control the deer themselves are too austere and impractical. A more common sense approach is needed. The Pennsylvania Game Commission should cooperate more with residents who have a deer problem to devise a means to reduce their deer nuisances rather than perpetuate them, which is the present problem.

HIGH-TECH DAIRYING

AUTOMATIC CALF FEEDER

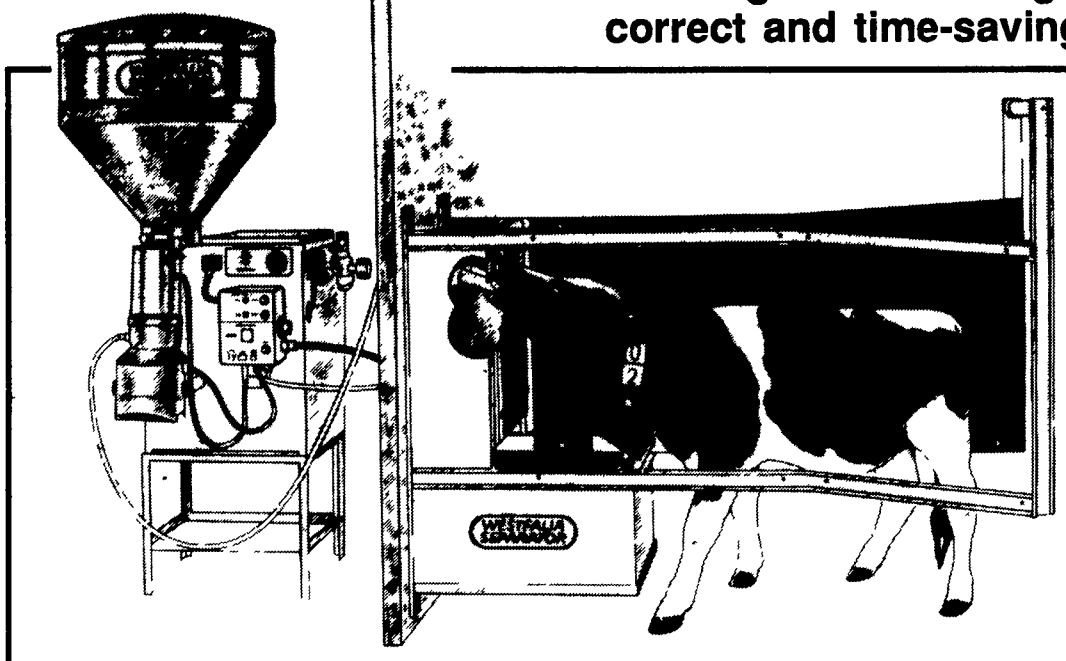
Even today, calves are housed in single cubicles or in small groups after birth. Each day they are fed with a bucket or suckling bucket. This method of rearing has been adopted because of the excellent possibilities for supervision it offers, although it does not optimally meet the biological feeding requirements of the calves.

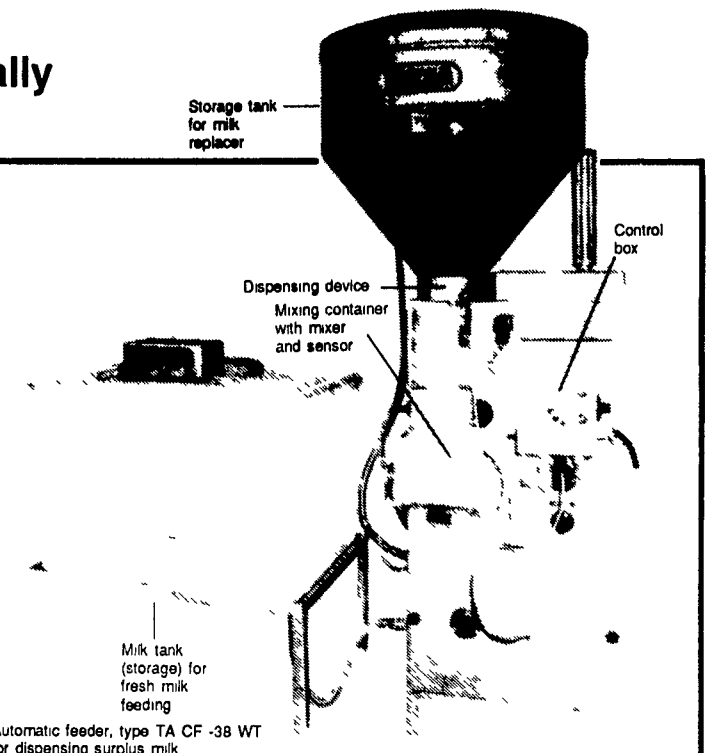
The Westfalia Separator feeding system now also brings the advantage of biological correct feeding to the calf shed.

In this system calves do not suck on each other. The nipple virtually eliminates the calves sucking on each other.

By grouping your calves in a healthy and co-habitational environment, standard calf hutches are replaced, eliminating the controversy caused by animal rights advocates.

Calf feeding that is biologically correct and time-saving





Storage tank for milk replacer
Control box
Dispensing device
Mixing container with mixer and sensor
Milk tank (storage) for fresh milk feeding

Automatic feeder, type TA CF -38 WT for dispensing surplus milk and milk powder

Thriving, contented calves with a good daily weight increase...

- Portions are always freshly stirred at a constant temperature; particularly important during the first weeks of life.
- Constant 38 to 40° C feed temperature intensifies the oesophageal groove reflex.
- Physiologically correct feeding in 500 ml portions corresponds to the mother's feeding
- Feed amounts to suit the capacity of the rennet stomach; fewer intestinal disorders.
- Cost-effective cubicle housing tailored to the animals' needs.
- Operationally reliable, user- and maintenance-friendly technology.
- Greatly reduced workload per calf; less than 1 man hour/calf for each feeding period.
- Easy to clean (circulation cleaning with automatic switch-off of the design with liquid milk feeding).
- Better promotion of early growth.
- Better utilization of feed with calves for beef production and greater daily weight increases.
- The amount of feed called off can be checked at any time for concrete information on the health of the animals. Early countermeasures can be taken against illnesses.
- Two designs:
  - Fresh milk feeding only (also beestings).
  - Fresh milk feeding with milk powder additive.
  (automatically switchable to water and milk-powder feeding).
- Feeding of water and milk powder (for beef production also).
- Limited amounts of milk replacer lead to earlier basic feed and concentrates intake; pre-stomach system develops more rapidly.
- Consequently, quicker weaning off calf feed (after 7 to 8 weeks); feeding costs are considerably reduced to only 30 to 40 kg of milk replacer per calf.

tion and safe marketing of live poultry.

"The quarantine was imposed to control possible spread of avian influenza," Wolff said, "and while there is continuing evidence of exposure to poultry in Mid-Atlantic states, we believe marketing and exhibitions can resume under appropriate safeguards.

"To date, out control efforts have been very successful, thanks in large part to the outstanding cooperation and understanding of flock owners and the poultry industry."

Avain influenza does not affect human health — even the strain that is highly pathogenic and caused the slaughter of 17 million birds in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia in 1983 and 1984.

Under the new amended order in Pennsylvania, poultry more than one week old may be transported within the state provided three conditions are met.

Of those conditions, the live poultry must originate from a flock that is monitored for avian influenza; the live poultry must be accompanied by an approved health certificate showing the birds originate from a flock that has been blood tested for avian influenza; and all trucks, coops, cages, creates or other conveyances used to transport eggs or poultry must be cleaned and disinfected prior to farm pickup.

Special quarantine restrictions still apply to poultry from flocks that are suspected to be exposed to avian influenza. Flock subjected to the special quarantine require a permit prior to moving birds.

State and federal regulators have conducted field visits to nearly 500 locations in Pennsylvania since the avian influenza virus was isolated in live bird markets in three Northeastern states.

To date, tesung found evidence that birds have been exposed to the virus, but no live virus has been found in any Pennsylvania poultry flocks.

The ammended order, by law, is to be published in newspapers which effectively reach the majority of those affected by the order. According to the order, it is to be published in full in both the Harrisburg Patriot News and Lancaster Farming.

Safety Seminar

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — A seminar designed to teach life-saving techniques to emergency personnel and farmers when accidents occur on the farm will be held Monday, April 5 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

Sponsored by the North Jackson Grange of Myerstown, the purpose is to instruct emergency medical technicians (EMT's), paramedics, and firefighters how to save a life when heavy machinery is involved. The seminar should also be of interest to farmers who may be liable for damages from accidents on their farms.

The seminar is running in two sessions from 9 a.m. until noon and from 7-10 p.m. The sessions are being sponsored by the North Jackson Grange as part of a community service project for the farming community and emergency personnel.

Donated equipment includes a manure pit and silo, forage box, regular baler, haybine, corn picker, combine, round baler and manure spreader. Representatives from the equipment dealers will identify their machinery, how it operates, how it handles the crop, how the crop moves through the machinery, and what steps to take to shut down the equipment.

Table 2. Comparing Production Drops

Month Tested	Days in Milk	Daily Milk (Milking Herd)	Standardized 150-Day Milk
Dec.	150	74.2	74.1
June	192	57.8	65.8
Difference	42	16.4	8.3

Looking at Table 2, you will notice that average days in milk increased 42 days from December to June. This alone would cause cows to produce less milk, but how much less? In this example, about 8.3 pounds less. In other words, about one half of the 16.4 pound drop could be attributed to advanced days in milk.

Let's look at Table 3 for another example. Average days in milk were lowest in October and highest in April, 127 days compared to 205. Daily milk per cow in October was 72.5 pounds; it dropped to 61.3 pounds in April. It would be easy to conclude that the herd was doing much more poorly in April. When we adjust for differences in days in milk and compare the 150-day production figures, we discover that the herd was actually doing better, by 4.8 pounds — not more poorly as the 11.2 pound drop might lead you to think.

Table 3. Comparing Days in Milk

Month Tested	Days in Milk	Daily Milk (Milking Herd)	Standardized 150-Day Milk
Oct.	127	72.5	68.1
April	205	61.3	72.9
Difference	78	-11.2	+ 4.8

In Table 1, as we analyze days in milk and % (cows) in milk, we conclude that this is a seasonal-calving herd. Cows start calving around October. During the calving season, average days in milk is relatively low and actual test-day milk per cow increases rather substantially. The 150-day milk averages increase more slowly and are a truer reflection of production increases that are associated with cooler weather, or perhaps with an improvement of feeds, udder health, etc. Later in the year, as days in milk increase for this example herd, the opposite trend occurs; the 150-day milk averages decrease more slowly than does the actual test-day averages.

Use these 150-day averages as you and your consultants attempt to accurately evaluate production trends in your herd.

and Washington, and losing to Oklahoma. This set up a final showdown between Penn State and Oklahoma State, with the Nittany Lions needing two consecutive wins to take the championship. The Lions won dramatically in a first-round tiebreaker. In the final round, the Penn State team emerged victorious. This is only the second time the Beef Bowl Competition has been held, with Penn State also making it to the final round in the 1990 competition.

Dairy and Animal Science students and faculty express their gratitude to all those who provided funds that enabled the team to participate in this educational and exciting experience. The response to our request for support was overwhelming with additional contributions from: Pennsylvania Livestock Association, Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, Pennsylvania Beef Council, Taylor Packing Company, Mopac, Inc., and the Penn State Stockmen's Club. Moral support came from the following fans who were present to cheer on the team: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Mick Colvin, John Comerford, Galen Driebelbis, Dorlin Hay, and Glenn Eberly.

Four students from Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science won the National Championship Beef Bowl Competition at a recent meeting of the National Cattlemen's Association in Phoenix. Shown here are (left to right): Stanley E. ers Union; Dr. David Kronfeld, private citizen, but a well-known attendant to animal rights and industry issues events; an unannounced substitute speaker for the Center for Science in the Public Interest; Tim Atwater, spokesman for Rural Vermont, an advocacy organization for the family farm; Dr. Jeremy Rifkin, well-known anti-animal industry proponent; Louise Risk, speaking for Food Animal Concerns Trust; and Dr. Micahel Fox, with the Humane Society of the U.S.

Except for Kronfeld, none of those speaking against BST stayed as was requested, to answer questions from the committee about their testimony.

Those speaking on behalf of BST included several dairy farmers who have had herds on BST for five years and testified they experienced no increase in mastitis; a spokesman for the National Mastitis Council; the American Veterinary Medical Association; several other veterinarians who had worked with BST herds and presented data on some, such as True Farms in New York; three representatives from Monsanto, including Collier, and a consultant to Monsanto.

PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

MODEL 90 FARROWING CRATE

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping on the piglets. This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

The world famous Walkup Valiant Lou Ella (EX92, GMD-DOM) is the dam of Leadsman and has many descendants in the Rothrock Golden Holstein herd.

Lancaster Holstein Tour

you into manicured lawns and historic farm buildings. Inside the barn, the beautiful well-conditioned cows told you this herd is well managed.

"It's a small family operation," Zimmerman said. "But we try to keep a few good cows around."

These few good cows, 43 in number, just happen to include 14 excellents, 25 very goods and 4 good plus babies in roomy tie stalls. The BAA is 110 for type and the rolling herd average for milk is 19539m 791f 645p.

Two Excellent 94 cows take your eye. A homebred 15 year-old is 5E and still looks excellent after 10 lacations up to 20,125m 5.1% 1021f. The other Excellent is a young cow with 4y 23,873m 4.0% 929f. She looked like the perfect type cow.

KEYSTONE FARM

The well-known Keystone Farm of the Donald Seipt family at Easton was the second stop. Longevity is the trade-mark of the Keystone herd. Last year three cows in the herd went over 300,000 lbs. lifetime and at least 12 other cows in the herd are over 200,000 lbs.

Over the years Keystone has developed 80 excellent cows. At present out of 90 Registered Holsteins in the herd, 21 are excellent. The BAA is 108.6 and the rolling herd average is over 26,000 lbs. with many individual records over 35,000lbs.

For example, Cola (EX) has 4y 37,423m 3.7% 1373f 3.2% 1205p. An old cow, whose name we missed in our notes, has 10y 39,789 3.6% 1429f. Shannon (2E) has 5y 35,570m 3.5% 1258f 3.4% 1206p.

The Seipt family has a three-way partnership with two sons Don Jr., and Doug included in the operation. "We have always felt that getting production is not nearly as hard as breeding good type individuals," Seipt said. "So, we have been cautious about the type of bulls we use.

At Keystone, the calves are raised in a special "motel" that is open in front but well protected with an overhang roof. The farm office is filled with trophies, ribbons and photos that tell of the herd's top show and production achievements.

ROTHROCK FARMS

Then the two buses went to Rothrock Farms at Kempton, where many of the top genetics in the Holstein breed have been purchased to assemble high indexes as the foundation to sell high priced offspring. The part of the herd that is merchandised nationally and internationally is housed in a ultra-modern dairy barn with 40 tie-stalls and 12 box stalls that line the outer wall. One of the other four has milking facilities as well.

In the first box stall of the show barn is the famous Walkup Valiant Lou Ella (EX 92 GMD-DOM) with 3y 33,480m 4.6% 1547f 3.4% 1139p.and index numbers that reach the sky. Lou Ella is the dam of Leadsman and has a full sister and many daughters, grand daughters, and embryos in the herd.

The top 10 percent of the herd is flushed, and these embryos are implanted in the bottom 80 percent of the herd. Embryos are sometimes even planted in Excellent cows, if the resulting offspring will be worth more than a natural born calf. A few cow families are propagated that include eight or nine generations of Excellent dams.

Rockroth Golden Holsteins are world-renowned for famous cattle. The barn features an office, two apartments and a water-cooled ventilation system for the comfort of the cows. An open calf-raising facility is also part of the setup. Bruce Rothrock, a successful businessman from Allentown, set started the herd in the early 1980's. Jack Miller joined the operation soon thereafter and as manager plays a major role in the herd's success.

KISSLING FARM

At the last stop of the day, the Lancaster tour visited the Hidden View Farm of Tim and Teresa Kissling. Here the rows of beautiful udders and cows with capacity and dairy type provided a fitting climax to a day of looking at beautiful cows.

Teresa is the herdsperson and the herd's success has given Hidden View world-wide contracts for bulls and embryos. The Marcy family is outstanding. Production and type go hand in hand. For example, the Excellent Clover cow has 4y 40,438m 3.3% 1322f 2.9% 1169p. The rolling herd average is 25,199m 904f 812p.

Tim also has a consulting business for nutrition and helps 300 other dairy farmers from Kansas to New York and Pennsylvania with feeding programs.

"You can feed cows all haylage or all corn silage or any combination in between," Tim said. "It makes no difference what forage set-up you have as long as you balance the ration to go with it.

"We have no secrets, nothing special. We just try to get a balanced diet using what feeds are available on the farm."

Groups of Lancaster farmers spent quite some time gathered around Tim asking questions about their own feeding programs. But time ran out. It was getting dark and time to head home.

When the buses arrived back at the Farm and Home Center, it was too late for the participants to be of much help at home for the evening milking. But the experience was quite valuable. One dairyman in summarizing his experience was heard to say, "If the dairy farmers we visited can do it (get top production and type from their cows), why can't I?"

Tulip Tour Bursts With Ideas For Food, Flowers, Decor

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Sunny skies and warm breezes inspire homemakers to make their homes a lovelier place inside and outside. A reservoir of ideas for flowers, food, and home decor awaits those who participate in the Tulip Tour.

The sixth annual Kitchen Kaper "Tulip Tour" on Monday, April 26 from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m., is sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ephrata. Seven homes will be open. In every kitchen a chef will prepare food samples for you to taste. Also in every home, local florists and greenhouses will be adding their decorative touches.

In conjunction with the Tour, craft people will have their displays set up at the Ephrata Church of the Brethren, 201 Crescent Avenue, Ephrata. All craft items will be for sale from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The craft displays will be open earlier and close later than the Tour so everyone has time to attend both. Beverages and rest room facilities will also be available at the church.

Tickets cost $6 in advance and $7 the day of the tour. No tickets will be sold at the individual homes on the day of the Tour, but they may be purchased at the Church of the Brethren on the day of the Tour, April 26. For advance tickets, please send a stamped, self-addressed business size #10 envelope with a check payable to the Woman's Club of Ephrata, to Mrs. Elsie Minnich, 1141 Joann Avenue, Ephrata, PA. 17522 or by calling (717) 733-1075 or (717) 733-3528.

Andy and Diane Fletcher, 251 Mason Drive, Ephrata, recently moved into a new contemporary style home located in the Brickyard development.

Natural light spills from the many windows of all shapes and sizes that dominate the architectural lines of the house. The Fletchers use a smattering of country decor that blends tradition with the modernness of a whirlpool bath and designer window treatments in the formal living room.

The kitchen has oak cabinets by Foxcraft with white and brass handles and a porcelain sink. A small blue jelly cupboard, pottery and country curtains add to this home's charm.

Entered in the 1992 Lancaster County Realtors Parade of Homes by the builder, the Fletchers' home won "Best of Show" as well as "Best of Show Kitchen" and "Best of Show Master Bathroom."

Fox Chase Golf Club and Restaurant, 300 Stevens Road, Stevens, will have their chef dishing out samples. Chris's Floral Designs, Chris Good, owner and designer, Indian Run Road, Stevens, will add the decorative touches.

• Also located in the Brickyard Development at 114 Gery Court, Ephrata, is the home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Zev Kopeika. This two and a-half-year-old split level home has a completely different decor. A slightly modern look with sharp contrasts in colors of white, charcoal, and black. Upon entering the foyer, you can go downstairs to a large recreation room, an office with bedroom and a bathroom with a jacuzzi to relax.

As you go up the stairs to the dining room, be sure to look down into the two-story living room. The dining room features a rectangle glass table surrounded by white covered chairs. Take note of the overhead dining room light. In the kitchen the cabinets have a whitewashed look, black counter tops and black and white floor tiles. To add a splash of color, Mrs. Kopeika took sponges dipped in aqua paint and sponged her walls. The addition of metallic fish placed on the wall gives that personal touch to her kitchen. Doors lead from the dining room and kitchen to an outdoor deck.

Country Pride, (the Barbecue Place), Route 272, Denver, will provide the food samples. Jim Hummel, designer, D and E Marketing of Ephrata, will add his designing touch to this home.

• One of the homes featured on the tour is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Schonewetter, 945 Martin Avenue, Ephrata.

This one-story contemporary ranch home was built in 1992 and allows the family the easy living look they desired. Made from clay colored bricks and accented by green shutters, this four bedroom home offers over 2,800 square feet. The large entrance hall features oak hardwood flooring. The living room features a baby grand piano and music stand where music lessons are given. When entering the family room, kitchen and

Andy and Diane Fletcher with daughter Tayler talk about the upcoming Tulip Tour when their home will be decorated by Chris's Floral Design and Fox Chase Restaurant will serve chicken strips with dijon marinade to everyone who participates in the tour.

The home of Andrew and Diane Fletcher is one of seven homes featured on the sixth annual Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour to be held Monday, April 26 from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Fox Chase Rooted In Farm Background

Sean Molignoni, head chef, and Doug Graybill, food service manager, display some of the food that they serve at Fox Chase.

STEVENS (Lancaster Co.) — One of the restaurants preparing food during the Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour has its roots in farming.

Fox Chase Restaurant evolved from the Graybill dairy farm, which was transformed into a golf course and restaurant two years ago.

Mazie Graybill was born on the farm and has lived there all her life. Now 92, Mazie said, "The view from my window has changed. And, I'd say, for the better."

Instead of cornfields, Mazie looks over rolling greens.

She said, "The golf course doesn't spoil anything; it makes it nicer."

"We wanted to keep the land as open as possible," her grandson, Doug, explained. "We didn't want to turn it into a development as most golf courses do."

The lay of the land has changed little except three ponds were added, a few rises, and hundreds of trees planted.

Doug's father and uncle, Arthur and Irvin Graybill, own the land. Doug is food service manager and his cousin Steve oversees the golf course.

Doug said that he got interested in food preparation when his parents and two brothers opened a dairy store on the farm. It was named Triple G Dairy Store in reference to the three Graybill brothers who opened it. One passed away in 1986 and since then the children of the original owners became involved in the business.

"Triple G began offering assorted salads and other deli items and soon people were asking us if we'd provide the food for receptions and picnics," Doug said.

That is how Doug's catering business, called Triple G Catering, began. Doug recognized a need for a gathering place where groups could hold receptions, parties, and picnics. When Fox Chase was built, a spacious dining area was added and an outdoor pavilion with the idea that it would be available to golfers as well as non-golfers.

"We want to stress that the restaurant is open to everyone and not just golfers even though it is located on the golf premises," Doug said.

The dining room with its many windows offers a panoramic view of the land and the large pavilion is in a wooded area that also overlooks the rolling greens.

"We try to be health conscious in our menus," Doug said. "Everything is made fresh when ordered. We use no processed entrees."

The restaurant menu includes traditional luncheons; the banquet entrees include Salmon with Bearnaise, Flounder Mediterranean, and Fettucini Prima Vera.

"Anything that is not on the menu can be prepared upon request," Doug said.

Mesquite wood to enhance flavor is used for grilling. The catering menu offers everything from pig roasts to clam bakes.

Doug, his wife and children are now the fifth generation of Graybills to live in the farmhouse. The main house is a log cabin with a second story added above the summer kitchen.

According to Doug's grandmother, it's traditional for the newly married couples of each family to move into the farmhouse and have their parents build a house on the farmland.

Mazie and her husband had five sons. She said, "We are a close family and we even live close together."

She is proud that her children work together so well. "They learned that working on the farm," she said. "We taught them to work and go to Sunday school."

Although Mazie has had two strokes and a cardiac arrest, she has recovered and walks a lot around the golf course. She even tries her hand at golfing.

She likes when Doug stops in to Eat Your Way To Lower Health Costs

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — President Clinton and his wife Hillary, along with a group or medical experts and lay people, are aggressively addressing the excelating cost of medical care in our country. As usual they are taking the "band-aid" approach and trying to fix you after the fact. A much btter approach would be a preventive one. Research has shown that 44% of our health care bill is directly related to our diets and exercise programs. Think of the dollar savings if we could get people to change their nutrition habits and adopt a healthy lifestyle.

According to Annette Goodling, Extension Agent, Montgomery County Cooperative Extension, "Adopting a healthy lifestyle is relatively easy but requires most of us to make some changes in our diets and exercise choices." How can we do this? We start to establish our nutrition patterns at birth and they become habits that we follow. Like any habit they are a part of us and require a conscious effort on our part to effect changes. Most of us set ourselves up for failure when trying to change our food and exercise habits. We think we have to make a complete overhaul at once, but unlike other habits such as smoking, "cold turkey" is not the best way to change nutrition patterns. It is best to choose just one thing you'd like to change and concentrate on it for several weeks, maybe months until it becomes you new habit. For example, if you currently have breakfast at the local drive-through on your way to work, select the muffins over the biscuit sandwich at least one day a week. Another example, substitute a low-fat dressing for your regular dressing on your salads. In the exercise department, instead of driving around the parking lot looking for the closest spot, park farther way and enjoy the walk. You might choose to walk the steps instead of the elevator at least once or twice a week. These are easy changes to make without totally overhauling your current habits. These small changes can be significant in helping to reach our goal of better health habits.

Suggest to your congressmen that we spend money on wellness education at the worksites. Money spend on wellness training and support groups at the worksites would encourage people to become more health conscience. Resolve this month to poll your co-workers to see what programs you can request for yourselves. Ask your employer to be the trend setter for the new "Healthy America 2000." Let's update that old motto" An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." to say "A dime spent for nutrition education is worth a dollar spent for health care."

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Years ago when our oldest grandchild was younger, his mother and I took him to the North Museum in Lancaster where they had a "hands-on room". He enjoyed being able to handle everything he saw and not just look through a glass case at rocks and animals.

Today there is a hands-on "house" north of Lancaster that contains everything you could think of to entertain your child. My mother often told me that she had 50 first cousins, but I think she was a few shy of that number — I have only two. Anyway, this hands-on house was the home of her cousin, Pierce Landis. I visited there with my parents when Pierce, Sarah, and Bessie lived there.

This house now is a children's museum and is noisy and bright. The entry of the early 1900s house has a video camera and television monitor so that you can see yourself on TV. One room has a large tree with animals in it and a forest area where you can hunt birds and insects. When I went there recently with our grandchildren from Atlanta, they really liked the "Under Construction" room where they could climb a ladder and wear a hard hat while hammering and laying bricks.

There was a post office and a corner grocery too. Here they sorted letters and in the store bought all kinds of plastic fruits and vegetables. One area stressed how our bodies develop and grow. Another room allowed the children to study facial expressions and here they could paint their faces.

Children and parents can enjoy the exhibits together. What would the Pierce Landis family, who never had children, think of their house now?

Make Easter Dinner Special

Organization and planning can help make your Easter dinner a success. Select recipes that can be partially prepared in advance and supplement your "from scratch" menu components with high quality prepared foods.

The dairy association suggests an Easter menu that is flexible and easy.

Roasted Leg of Lamb or Baked Ham
Buttery Asparagus Saute
Wild Rice Pilaf
Hot Cross Buns with Cream Cheese Frosting
Lemon Cream Tiramisu

Lamb or ham is a traditional main dish for Easter. The preparation options are many:

- Rub lamb with dried or fresh herbs such as rosemary, thyme, and marjoram before roasting.
- Coat lamb with Dijon-style mustard and buttered bread crumbs before roasting.
- Purchase a pre-cooked ham so all you have to do is heat it through before serving.
- Order the ham baked and sliced from the supermarket, local carry-out or a restaurant and spend a few minutes garnishing the platter with fresh herbs.
- Add a special touch to the ham by brushing with cherry preserves or orange marmalade during the last 10 minutes of baking.
- Purchase a boneless lamb roast or ham — it's easier to carve and serve whether on a buffet or at the dinner table.

The recipes for the menu suggested by the Dairy Association are included in this column, which also includes many wonderful recipes from our readers.

BUTTERY ASPARAGUS SAUTE

1 pound asparagus, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 medium red bell pepper, cut into short thin strips
⅓ cup sliced shallots or chopped onions
3 tablespoons butter
¼ teapoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
Freshly ground black pepper

In large skillet over medium heat, cook asparagus, bell pepper, and shallots in butter until asparagus is crisp-tender, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Season with salt, nutmeg, and pepper. Serve immediately.

HOT CROSS BUNS WITH CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

4½ to 5 cups all-purpose flour
2 packages active dry yeast
½ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cardamom
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1¼ cups milk
½ cup butter
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup currants or raisins
⅓ cup candied orange peel, optional
1 egg yolk mixed with 2 tablespoons water

Frosting:

3-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon milk

Combine 2 cups flour, yeast, granulated sugar, salt, and spices in large mixer bowl. Heat milk and butter to very warm. Add to flour mixture. Beat on medium speed for 1 minute. Add eggs, beat 1 minute.

Stir in currants, orange peel, and enough remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Turn onto lightly floured work surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes, adding additional flour as needed. Place in buttered bowl, turning to butter top. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch down dough; turn onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough in half; divide each half into 9 pieces. Form each piece into smooth round ball.

Place balls of dough in two buttered 8-inch square baking pans. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes to 1 hour. Brush lightly with egg yolk mixture. Bake rolls in preheated 375 degree oven, 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pans. Cool on wire rack. For frosting, beat cream cheese and confectioners' sugar until smooth. Add milk as desired for drizzling consistency. Drizzle frosting across top of each bun in the shape of a cross.

Add a special touch to your Easter meal with homemade Hot Cross Buns with Cream Cheese Frosting. These buttery, yeast-raised rolls can be baked weeks ahead and frozen.

JELLY BEAN COOKIES

½ cup butter
⅓ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup light brown sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups flour
½ cup rolled oats
1 cup miniature jelly beans

Cream together butter and sugars. Beat in egg, baking soda, baking powder, salt, and vanilla. Stir in flour and oats. Add jelly beans. Heat oven to 375 degrees. Drop batter by rounded spoonfuls about 2 inches apart on lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or lightly brown. Makes 3 to 3½ dozen.

Contributor writes that she doubles the recipe at Easter time because the cookies disappear so quickly.

Featured Recipe

Hop to it: You can compete with the Easter Bunny this year when it comes to creating a basketful of good taste. Pistachio Swirl Easter Bread doubles as a delightful treat and a colorful centerpiece.

Rich with homemade goodness, this luscious loaf is wonderfully easy to make. Within frozen bread dough and the most basic of ingredients are treasures of color and taste: orange peel, tangy lemon glaze and plenty of rich, crunchy pistachios.

PISTACHIO SWIRL EASTER BREAD

1 cup natural pistachios, finely chopped in food processor or blender
1 egg
⅓ cup sugar
¼ cup butter, softened
1½ tablespoons finely chopped orange peel
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 loaf frozen bread dough, thawed until soft and puffy
1 egg white, beated with 1 tablespoon water

Mix pistachios with egg, sugar, butter, orange peel, vanilla and salt; set aside. Roll out dough on floured board to 12x9-inch rectangle (dough will feel elastic and want to pull back). Spread pistachio mixture onto rectangle, leaving ½ -inch border at edges. Roll up dough, starting from long side. Transfer to oiled, 12-inch pizza pan. Carefully shape into ring, then seal ends together, wetting dough with water if necessary. With kitchen shears or knife, snip into or slice dough ring at ¾ to 1-inch intervals, cutting from outside edge towards center but not quite all the way through. Gently pull apart and turn each slicxe to face up and brush ring with egg wash.

Place in warm place for 30 to 60 minutes to let rise until soft and puffy. Pre-heat oven to 375 degrees F.; bake for 17 minutes or until goden, covering loosely with foil if it browns too quickly. Cool; drizzle with glaxe of 1 cup powdered sugar mixed with 4 to 5 teaspoons lemon juice. Garnish with extra chopped pistachios.

COCONUT-CREAM CAKE WITH LEMON-LIME FILLING

Cake:
- 2½ cups flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter, softened
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Filling:
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- ¼ cup water
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon grated lime peel
- Green food color (optional, but makes cake more colorful)

Frosting:
- 2 cups heavy cream, chilled
- ½ cup confectioners' sugar
- 4-ounces flake coconut
- 1-2 limes sliced for garnish

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 3 9x1½-inch round pans. In a large bowl, at high speed, beat butter and 2 cups sugar until light. Add 4 eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Continue beating until fluffy — about 2 minutes. At low speed, beat in flour, baking powder, and salt (in fourths) alternately with milk (in thirds). Add vanilla. Beat just until smooth, about 1 minutes. Pour into prepared pans. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until surface springs back. Cool in pans on wire racks.

Filling: In a small saucepan, mix 1 cup sugar with cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in orange, lemon, and lime juices and the water. Bring to boiling over medium heat, stirring. Remove from heat. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Bring to boiling, stirring; boil 1 minute. Remove the pan from heat. Stir in lemon and lime peels and a few drops color. Turn into bowl; cool over ice water.

Frosting: In medium bowl, combine cream and confectioners' sugar. Refrigerate 30 minutes. Beat until stiff. Measure 1 cup whipped cream, and, with whisk, fold into filling. Place one cake layer, top side down, on large cake plate. Spread with half of filling almost to outer edge. Repeat with second layer with remaining filling; place top layer right side up. Frost with remaining whipped cream; decorate with coconut and lime slices. Refrigerate.

*Pie filling may also be used to make a great lemon-lime pie.

Contributor writes: This scrumptious looking cake is delicious any way you slice it. It is great when made a day ahead and refrigerated. The fluffiest of butter cakes layered with a lemon-lime filling, it is frosted with whipped cream, covered with grated coconut, and garnished with lemon slices. A decorative and colorful addition to your Easter dinner.

Half Moon Pies

1 quart dried apple snitz boiled in 1½ cups water until soft and no water remains. Put through colander and add.
1 quart applesauce
1½ cups brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
Pie dough

Separate pie dough into egg-sized pieces. Roll pie dough pieces until the thickness of pie crust. Fold over to make a crease through center. Fold back and make two holes in top part of dough. On the other half, place ½ cup filling. Wet edges and fold over. Press edges together. Cut remaining dough with pie crimper. Brush top with buttermilk or beaten egg. Bake at 450 degrees until brown.

ANSWER — Ruth Clavier, Dowingtown, wanted a recipe for Eclair Dessert. Thanks to Cathy Funderwhite, Millersville; May Ozinek, Paradise; Laura Weaver, Narvon; Verna Martin, Bethel; Mrs. Carl Pickel, Felton; and many others, for sending recipes. May suggests variations of topping with cherry or blueberry pie filling or lemon pudding instead of the chocolate frosting

Eclair Cake

1 pound box graham crackers
2 3-ounce boxes instant vanilla pudding
3½ cups milk
8-ounces whipped cream topping

Frosting:
8 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons oil
3 tablespoons margarine, softened
3 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons white corn syrup
1½ cups confectioners' sugar

Butter bottom of 9x13-inch pan. Line with graham crackers. Mix pudding with milk and beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Blend in whipped topping. Pour half of pudding mix over grahams. Top with another layer of grahams. Add remaining pudding and top with grahams. Cover and refrigerate 2 hours.

Combine frosting ingredients and beat until smooth. Spread frosting carefully over third layer of grahams and seal edges. Cover and refrigerate 2 hours before serving.

ANSWER — S. Jones of Limerick would like a recipe for chocolate chip cookies that are made with shortening instead of butter or margarine. The cookies should be very chewy. Thanks to Sylvia Troyer, Hartly, Del.; R. Zimmerman, Romulus, N.Y., and others for sending recipes. Many of you go to a lot of effort to send in recipes. Unfortunately we do not have room to print them all. Some hints to having your recipe published: Mail it as soon as possible. Do not wait until an answer is printed and then send one. Some questions receive many answers; and others none, so do keep trying. See if you can answer the first two requests in this week's column.

Chocolate Chip Cookies

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2¼ teaspoons baking soda, dissolved in buttermilk
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch salt
1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup nuts or coconut, if desired

Cream together brown sugar and shortening. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour alternately with buttermilk or sour milk. Add vanilla, salt, and chocolate chips. Drop by teaspoonful on cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes at 400 degrees.

Ultimate Chocolate Chip Cookies

¾ cup shortening, butter flavored if desired
1¼ cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 egg
1¾ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 cup pecan pieces

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cream shortening, sugar, milk, and vanilla in a large bowl. Blend until creamy. Blend in egg. Combine flour, salt, and baking soda. Add to creamed mixture. Gradually stir in chocolate chips and nuts. Drop by tablespoonful on ungreased cookie sheet, 3 inches apart. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes for chewy cookies (will appear light and moist). Do not overbake. Bake 11 to 13 minutes for crisp cookies. Cool on baking sheet for 2 minutes. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

Ham For Easter Dinner?

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — If you plan to serve a ham dinner this Easter, here are some facts you should know.

You can purchase different kinds of hams. Grocery stores offer regular hams and water-added hams. Regular hams contain no added water, while water-added hams may contain up to 10 percent added water. Over half the hams produced today are water-added.

You also will see "sectioned and formed" hams. Meat producers combine pieces of ham together into one shape to make these hams. Such hams are almost always water-added. They are very lean hams and slice well.

After you choose the kind of ham you like, decide which style you prefer. Hams may be bone-in, boneless or canned. Bone-in hams will yield about 3½ three ounce servings per pound. Boneless or canned hams provide five servings per pound. Divide the ham's cost per pound by the servings per pound to get the cost per serving.

If your choice is a bone-in ham, you can select a rump or shank portion. The rump portions tend to be higher quality, but have a more complicated bone structure for carving. There isn't a tremendous difference in quality so you may decide to select the shank because it's easier to carve.

All hams have to undergo some degree of heating at the processing plant. A ham labeled "fully cooked" needs only to be reheated to 140 degrees F. If the label does not state "fully cooked," heat it to 160 degrees F to bring about maximum tenderization. Bake the ham in a 300 to 325 degree F oven and use a meat thermometer to determine doneness. The hotter the oven, the greater the shrinkage. Hot ovens encourage moisture loss and produce drier, tougher ham.

You can use a microwave to heat your ham if you selected a fully cooked one. Cooking fresh meats in the microwave isn't the preferred method, but fully cooked ham can be reheated rather well because its color, flavor, and tenderness are already developed during processing.

Prepare only fully cooked ham at 50 percent power on a medium or low setting, use dish rotation and standing time to insure uniform heat penetration.

Freeze leftover ham for not more than two months. The presence of salt enhances the development of rancid flavors. Canned hams need proper storage as well. Most canned hams require refrigeration even before they're opened. You can store them, unopened in the refrigerator for one year. Although some small canned hams are sterilized and can be kept in a cupboard, read the container carefully to make sure.

A three-ounce serving of lean ham will contain about 180 calories, 6 grams of fat, 45 milligrams of cholesterol, and is high in protein, iron and B vitamins.

Pennsylvania Jersey Queen Begins Reign

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Wearing a satin peach gown, Anna Calhoun of Dayton, Armstrong County, was crowned 1993 Pennsylvania Jersey Queen at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club March 26. The daughter of Bill and Betty Calhoun, Anna is a sophomore at Dayton High School, where she is a cheerleader and soccer player. An active member of the Dayton Livestock 4-H Club, the Dayton Area Variety 4-H Club, and the Armstrong County 4-H Council, Anna owns two Jersey cows. She has been recognized as the outstanding senior 4-H Girl in Armstrong County and was a Keystone 4-H winner in dairy foods.

In her presentation, Anna, 15, told the audience of Jersey breeders at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in Chambersburg how the Pennsylvania Jersey Club is keeping abreast of challenges. Citing the efficiency of the Jersey cow, she said that the current emphasis on protein content of milk makes the Jersey cow attractive to dairymen. Jersey milk has 20 percent more protein and 15 percent more calcium than milk from other breeds, Anna said.

In the impromptu question portion of the competition, master of ceremonies Todd Stroup asked Anna, "What would you do if you found out your name had been selected in a drawing and you were getting 50 bred Jersey heifers and 50 bred Holstein heifers tomorrow?"

"I'd take them all," Anna replied. "It would build my herd up, and the Jerseys would bring more butterfat and protein into my herd."

As Queen, Anna said that she plans to support the Jersey breed and let everybody know that there is a Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club.

Crowned Alternate Pennsylvania Jersey Queen was Michelle Ryan, daughter of Maryann and Bob Chavey of Linglestown, Dauphin County. A freshman at Harrisburg Area Community College and a member of the Lower Dauphin FFA, Michelle owns three Jerseys, which she shows.

In answering the impromptu question, Michelle said that at first she would be upset if she were about to receive 50 bred Jersey heifers and 50 bred Holstein heifers because she does not live on a farm. She said she would ask questions about how to take care of them, and that she would keep the ones with the best genetic backgrounds. "It would be better than winning the lottery," she said.

1992 Pennsylvania Jersey Queen Marsha Chess thanked the Jersey breeders for the wonderful year she had as Queen. She had been named fourth runner-up in the National Jersey Queen contest in Louisville, KY during her reign.

Judges for the event were Julia Meyers of St. Thomas, chairperson of the Franklin County Dairy Promotion committee; Duane Norman of Fulton, Maryland, research leader of the Animal Improvement Programs Laboratory, USDA, Beltsville Laboratory; and Kathy Hartung of Mercersburg, Jersey breeder.

Cow Goes To School

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EAST PETERSBURG (Lancaster Co.) — Like most of the students at East Petersburg Elementary School, Vanna was well scrubbed and every hair was in place when she stepped inside the classroom door.

She was well behaved as she stood patiently in the spot that the teacher indicated. She did not kick or complain when students smirked, giggled, and held their noses.

A stunning red and white cow, Vanna seemed confident that the students who petted, patted, and rubbed her nose were quite good friends.

Although Vanna had often visited nursing homes, shopping malls, and playgrounds, this was her first actual visit inside the classroom.

To be honest, Vanna seemed better behaved than some of her classmates.

True, Vanna was allowed to munch on some food, while her classmates waited for lunch to be served in the cafeteria. She was allowed to stand while the other students were told to sit down, but Vanna was very cooperative during her first day at school.

Her calf, Sexy, that accompanied her, was not as well behaved.

Sexy lifted her tail and produced a puddle of water much to the chagin of the teacher. The students gasped and shrieked. Some held their noses.

Vanna and Sexy came to school to help children understand all the work that goes into making good-tasting milk for them.

Ordinarily, adults teach Ag in the Classroom sessions. But, on this day, 11-year-old Denise Bollinger, taught the students about cows.

"I'm here to tell you about cows. Yeah, they're big," she said in chatty kid lingo. "They grow to be about 100 feet or higher."

Maybe Denise exaggerated the size of the cow a bit, but she knows what she is talking about when it comes to milking and showing cows.

A cold rain forced Vanna the Cow and her calf Sexy to seek shelter inside the classroom at East Petersburg Elementary School. From left are Ruby, Darryl, and Denise Bollinger.

Denise, the daughter of Darryl and Ruby Bollinger of Manheim, helps every day on her parents' dairy farm. She told how she milks, feeds, and keeps record of the cows.

She told about taking cows to shows.

"Sure you miss school, but it's a lot of work," she said. "Every day, you've got to wash, feed, and clip them."

She showed the students the many cleaning supplies to keep cows looking their shimmering best. Hair spray is used to make their hair stand just right and hoof polish or shoe polish is used on their feet, but then you got to get that stuff out, she said.

For that, she uses Undress or oil.

The halters need to be shined with mineral oil.

"When you put the halter on, hold the animal tight. Train them to hold their heads up and tell them to behave, she said.

"To get the most control of an animal, walk it backwards," she said.

She explained the necessity of of registration and pedigree papers. "A cow is given an ear tag, earrings for life, she said.

Cows, she said, do get sick. A vet is a doctor for animals. But medicine doesn't take care of everything. One of Denise's cows had an allergic reaction to medication and got hives all over it.

Denise explained the four stomachs of a cow, how they chew their cud and it comes back up into another stomach.

"You feed cows hay or silage, but cows will eat anything, even ropes if you don't watch out," she said.

Denise got some help from her mother when she showed an automatic milker and how it is hooked up. She told of the need to wash a cow with iodine to kill bacteria and germs.

"I'm so lucky, I get to feed the calves," said Denise as she held up the bottle used to feed the calves.

"Every cow must be fed a balanced diet, just like you," Denise said.

She talked about the feed that is fed to the cows — a mixture of oats, corn, and molasses. Vitamins, fiber, protein, and salt are added.

"It tastes good. I tasted it," Denise assured the students.

Her father showed the students a bucket of feed from which Vanna nibbled.

Each of the students petted Vanna and her calf and admired her glossy coat.

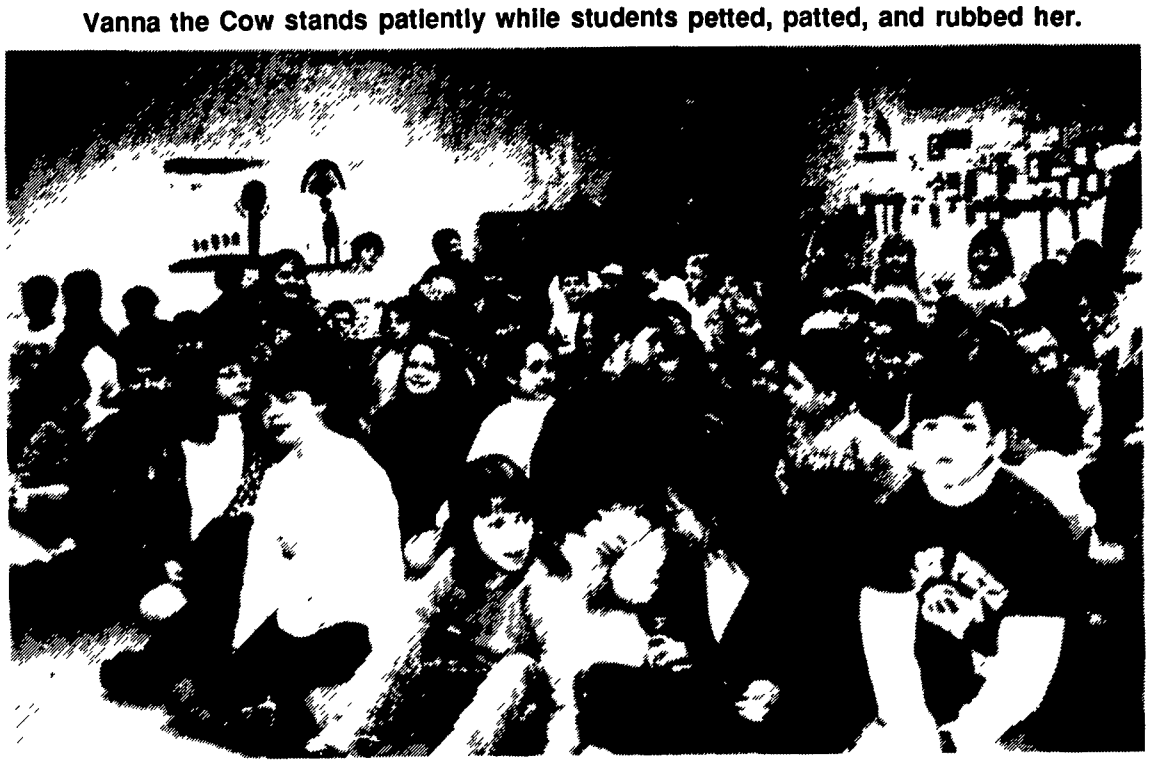
While the students needed to spend a whole day at school, Vanna did not.

She nonchalantly chewed her cud as Denise's dad led her through the doorway.

"It's the first time a cow was actually in the classroom," Denise reported with pride.

Now, Denise can add that accomplishment to the record book that she keeps on Vanna, that also won two blue ribbons and some other placings at local fairs.

Vanna the Cow stands patiently while students petted, patted, and rubbed her.



Students at East Petersburg Elementary School wait impatiently for a turn to pet Vanna the Cow and her calf, Sexy.

Whenever strangers visit the school, they must wear a badge to prove that they have been cleared by security. So when Vanna the Cow visited the school, she naturally wore a hat to prove she was cleared by security.

For Bonnie Herr of Kirkwood, the best thing about living in the '90s is watching her grandchildren grow up. Recently a grandchild from Alaska was visiting her, and ironically had to postpone her return to Alaska because of the blizzard that hit Lancaster County. The worst thing about the '90s according to Bonnie is the fear of nuclear holocast. "Not so much for myself but what will happen to the world at large and to grandchildren," she said.

"I like enjoying my family in my old age," Kathleen Groff of Kirkwood said. "The worst thing for young people is facing all those drugs."

Life In T... The Bes... T...

Jean Barnes of Hensel finds life most enjoyable now that she can watch watch her children and grandchildren enjoy life. She also enjoys the time that she gives to church work as a deacon and visiting older people. The shadow that hangs heavily over '90s is drugs, she said.

JOHN DEERE ROTARY MOWER/CONDITIONERS

Turn tough fields into tender hay

Take on thick, wet, or down hay...rolling terrain...rough fields...and keep your haying on schedule with a rugged John Deere Rotary Mower/Conditioner. Both the 8-foot-2-inch 1350 and the 9-foot-9-inch 1360 are built to handle tough conditions fast.

A quick, clean cut. Heavy-duty rotary disks spin at over 2,600 rpm so you can fly through fields at up to 8 mph. For strength, our rotary cutterbars are mounted directly to the carrying frame. Stress is absorbed by the framework, not the bearings of the driveline.

Thorough, leaf-saving conditioning. John Deere's impeller conditioning system rubs the crop against itself and the conditioning hood – scuffing the stems' waxy outer layer. The results: fast drydown and better quality hay.

A breeze to maneuver. For clean, square-cut corners, the optional swivel hitch lets you cut 90-degree corners quickly and easily.

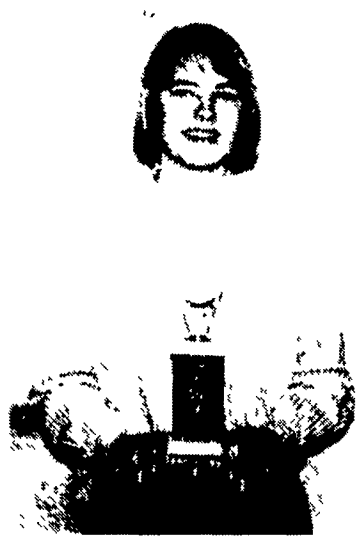
The '90s The Worst



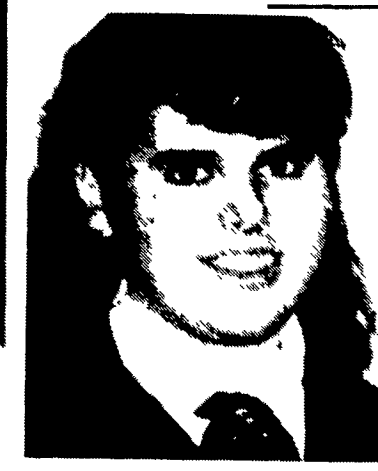
Jess Weaver, who is 15 years old and a ninth grader at Garden Spot High School, is quick to answer that she believes the technology and opportunity people have in the '90s is the best. From her perspective, the worst is the crime and drugs. Jess lives in Denver with her parents, John and Martha Weaver.

Connie Zeiset believes current technology to deal with disease can do more for people than any other time in history. "The worst thing is people's lack of respect for each other in sexual areas and lack of respect for the elderly," she said. "It's just a lack of caring in general."

A sophormore at Garden Spot High School, Connie is 16, the daughter of Grace Zeiset, Denver, and the late Jesse Zeiset.

Louise Wenger of Quarryville said, "As much as I enjoy TV, it's also the thing that is doing us in." She detests the criminal acts portrayed so graphically and believes that it cuts back on creativity.

"I'm not ready to go to the old days; there's some good things about this time," she said. The good things include the discoveries in her era of computers, telephones, and microwaves. "Just press a button — that's amazing," she said.



Linda Huber believes the best thing about living in the '90s is the freedom and rights that women especially have been able to achieve. "Women are not put down as much anymore," she said.

She believes the worst thing about living in this era is the diseases, especially AIDS, which is so prevalent today. "People know what causes it, but they don't try to prevent it," she said.

Linda is 16 years old and the daughter of Ivan and Fern Huber of East Earl.

The winner of the county pageant will receive numerous gifts, a scholarship, and will attend three days of training of Lycoming College, Williamsport. Non-material benefits include tremendous personal growth, development of self confidence and speaking ability, the opportunity to travel and meet new friends.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Maybe we just haven't hit the dial right yet.

Because, on the "big screen" view of the world beyond the kitchen window, the color picture won't come in. Indeed, we seem to be locked into receiving transmissions in monochromatic shades of brown.

Not that brown isn't a pretty color.

Those subtle hues of autumn browns, from pale golds to the stately, leathery-look of the oaks, make fall such a beautiful season.

Chocolate-candy-brown is a hands-down favorite. And the soft brown shades in the coats of Solomon, our Sheltie member of the family, and Butch, the beige and black tiger cat, stir admiration.

But brown has dominated the outside landscape for months, stretching across the horizon and around the contours. Various shades — all brown — delineated fields of corn stubble, dormant alfalfa stands — even plantings of barley and wheat, the living growth stunted and pale from harsh, cold winter winds.

Woodlots are a blend of deep brown and black, each bare trunk and limb adding its own distinct bark tone to the shading. Meadow grasses lay dormant in beige colors, matching the hue of the ring of dead cattail stalks rimming the pond.

Of course, we had a dramatic color-reception change there the other week as the brown was wiped out by transmissions in solid white — and buried us under drifts for a week.

Eventually that enhanced the brown tones outside the window, as a single passage of a tractor churned the melting mess on the field road to pure ooze mud. Equipment tires transferred that same muddy shade to the road and driveways around the buildings.

A dozen escaped heifers out cavorting one night after dark pockmarked the soggy yard with brown tracks, creating neat little hoof-shaped puddles for the rain.

And not too surprisingly, brown handprints added color contrast on one of the salmon-colored bathroom towels. Telltale evidence, requiring no need to take fingerprints to track the muddy party.

Still, as the white gave way back to brown, hints of a renewed color picture on the world's big screen view offer optimistic promise.

Slender slivers of green are poking through the dormant lawn, frontrunners of the growth that will have us hauling lawnmowers out of storage before we know it.

Weeping willows, their drooping limbs still barren of leafy green, take on a golden color with the lengthening, warming days. Peach orchards likewise blush with a reddish tint as the sap begins to flow.

Our prized pussywillow has opened furry-soft gray blooms, later than in many recent springs, but always a welcome harbinger of renewed plant life.

Perennials are pushing aside the brown mulch of last year's maple leaves, making way for fledgling foliage eager to bask in sunshine. Columbines, daylilies, chrysanthemum and peonies have begun filling formerly bare spots in the border. Winter-killed tips of iris fade behind new sheath-like leaves that shoot up from gnarly rhizomes anchored only halfway in the ground.

The rose canes color as they begin to stir toward fulfilling their promise of fragrant June blooms. And clumps of daffodils in sheltered corners wave tight, green buds just waiting to burst into yellow glory after a couple of warm afternoons.

Let's keep fiddling with that big screen dial.

The color's already starting to brighten a bit.

Extension Educates Prisoners

WILKES - BARRE (Luzerne Co.) — The Penn State Cooperative Extension Family Living Program Development Committee in cooperation with the Luzerne County Prison has developed an educational marketing display board for the families of prisoners. The board will help to educate families on key issues such as money management, building stronger families, and health and nutrition.

"It is our hope that families, while waiting to see prisoners, will gain new knowledge in various areas of family living," stated Joan Roginski, president of the committee. The idea was initated by Bob Crawford, committee member, and further developed by the committee.

Penn State Cooperative Extension's mission is "helping people help themselves." The committee functions to identify educational needs in Luzerne County and represents all geographic areas. The display board was built by volunteers, and materials donated by a local contractor.

The Luzerne County Commissioners support Penn State Cooperative Extension in Luzerne County in part along with state and federal monies. Offices are located in the Courthouse Annex, 5 Water Street, Wilkes-Barre.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For several years, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program has provided funds to county dairy promotion committees for the development of dairy promotion activities in Pennsylvania. During the spring of 1993, more than $31,000 were distributed among 34 committees across the state. These funds were given for activities to be conducted during the period of January to June, including many mall/store, school and radio promotions.

A majority of the funds will be used to conduct radio promotions. Local promoters use stations that reach geographic areas not covered by Pennsylvania Dairy's advertising programs. In addition, Pennsylvania Dairy provides committees with taped radio commercials as well as promotion ideas and information.

The Local Funding Program was created to support the strong backbone of local dairy promoters in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania Dairy awards funds twice annually, in the spring and fall. Applications for the next funding period, from July to December, 1993, are available by calling Nadine Houck at (717) 787-6903. All applications must be received by the PDPP on April 30.

Safely Dispose Of Household Cleaning Products

Thoughtlessly discarding an unused cleaning product is at odds with modern concern with our environment. Using household cleaning products until they are gone is the most efficient way to answer the disposal questions. If you cannot use it, try to find someone who can. If this is not possible, proper disposal is the next choice.

To insure safe disposal, check the label. Some cleaning products require special handling. If no instructions are given, it is safe to dispose of most cleaning products the same way they are used. However, any solvent based products should be saved for household hazardous waste collection. Solvent based means the product is not used with water for cleaning. Any cleaner stating on the label that it is flammable is probably solvent based.

Many floor care products, furniture cleaners and polishes, metal cleaners and polishes, spot removers, and oven cleaners are solvent based. Make sure that you check the labels on these products before disposing of them. Contact your local municipal government for local procedures regarding collection of hazardous household waste collection if you do not know what they are.

You will also find that some of these products state on the label that they are water soluble. This means they are used or rinsed with water for cleaning and may be poured down the drain. Water soluble products include all-purpose cleanser, bleaches, dishwashing and laundry products, toilet bowl cleaners and water-based metal cleaners and polishes. Run the water when discarding. Water-soluble aerosol products, such as spray starches and tub-and-tile cleaners, can also be discarded by spraying them down the drain with running water. Never mix cleaning products, even during disposal, as certain combinations may release dangerous gases.

With down-the-drain disposal, these cleaning products will end up at a municipal sewage treatment plant or a household septic system, both of which are equipped to safely handle them. Water-soluble cleaning products are formulated to be treated in these systems and then safety released into the environment.

Solid cleaning products, such as soap bars, rinse agents, soap pads and towelettes, should be disposed of in the trash.

Spend $63,530 And What Do You Get? Happy Volunteers!

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dollar value of their voluntary time in the program was estimated at $63,530, according to Penn State, but their actual contributions will last a lifetime.

Graduates of the 1991-1992 Lancaster County Master Gardener Program calmly and happily received their laurels last week at a special graduation ceremony held in the basement of the Farm and Home Center. Yes, they were the ones that started the renowned Idea Garden, of which surrounds the entrance to the building. And yes, all 22 of them participated in the beginnings of the Urban Gardening Program sponsored by Penn State.

"They're all very special, and each has done a wonderful job with the program," according to instructor Bruce Hellerick, extension horticulturist.

Even though the graduates, many with their families standing by proudly, were through with the program (and the group collectively accumulated exactly 2,589 hours of instruction, made 1,187 phone calls, visited 143 locations, conducted two media interviews, and held 124 meetings), they stood by to learn even more. Because at the program, Rick Lewandowski, Morris Arboretum, University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, provided insights into "New, Underutilized, and Emerging Plants For Today's Landscape."

The plants ranged from the Blue Mist Dwart Fothergilla (Fothergilla gardenii 'Blue Mist') to Duke Gardens Plum-yew (Cephalotaxus harringtonia var. drupacea 'Duke Gardens.'

The Master Gardener graduates are Donald E. Beers, Mary M. Bitting, Nancy N. Dishong, Arlene Ditzler, Laurie A. Elsoos, Joyce C. Ember, Carol A. Emerson, Elaine C. Fisher, Ann Foley, Rose Marie Haag, Eric Habegger, Sara F. Hannum, Patricia Hines, Jonathan W Kreider, Elizabeth L. Lenton, Hans G. Lienhard, George E. Lilley, Susan J. Patterson, Barbara Jo Porter, Karen Shimko, Eileen S. Shimp, and Katherine Witbeck.

TRIPPER II

Franklin County's 1993 apple royalty are, left, Apple Princess Billie Jo Cheshier, Apple Queen Heidi Martin, and Apple Princess Meredith Pratt.

Franklin County Selects Apple Queen, Princesses

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

EDENVILLE (Franklin Co.) — "Apples are one of the best foods you can possibly eat," Heidi Martin told the audience shortly before she was crowned 1993 Franklin County Apple Queen. "I'm passionate about the apple industry."

Heidi was crowned March 20 at the Franklin County Horticultural Society's Fruitgrowers Banquet, held at the Edenville Community Center.

Heidi, 17, is the daughter of Randy and Sandy Martin of Chambersburg. She is a senior at Greencastle-Antrim High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society, and is on the yearbook staff. She was sponsored by her grandfather, Ralph Tracey of Tracey's Orchard, where she helped in the sales shed since she was a child.

"I grew up around apples," she said.

In the interview portion of the contest, emcee Robert Thomas of WKSL radio station asked Heidi, "What is the most important issue facing today's teens — drug and alcohol abuse, staying in school, pregnancy, or AIDS?" Heidi replied, "AIDS. You can't just go around and not worry about it. You have to be careful and responsible."

The new Queen said that during her reign she wants to work with elementary school children to teach them about apples. She wants to impress upon them how versatile apples are, both for nutritious eating and for crafts. "Picking up an apple is easier than making a batch of cookies," she added.

Also crowned at the pageant were 1993 Apple Princesses Meredith Pratt and Billie Jo Cheshier. Meredith, 16, is the daughter of Jim and Bonnie Pratt of Waynesboro. A junior at Waynesboro High School, she was sponsored by Five Forks Fruit.

The daughter of Ken and Mary Cheshier, Waynesboro, Billie Jo is a senior at Waynesboro High School. She is 19, and was sponsored by Fusting Farms Orchard.

Judges for the event were Sandy Kime, chairperson of the Adams County Apple Queen contest; Wayne Golladay of Adams County; and Linda Ordway of Chambersburg.

Jennifer Witmer, 1992 Franklin County Apple Queen and Pennsylvania Apple Queen, crowned her successor. "I've had a wonderful year," she told the audience in her farewell remarks. "It was fun and exciting, and a real learning experience." She said she educated people about the nutritional, economic and environmental aspects of apples. Her favorite activity was visiting elementary schools and sharing with the children how important the apple is.

She participated in the Greencastle Old Home Week parade, Farm Show, and the Franklin County Fair, and worked with local radio stations for Apple Month.

"The experience was priceless," she concluded.

Jennifer was assisted in her apple-promoting activities by 1992 Princesses Tonia Horst and Brandi Tracey.

Coordinator of the contest, Carole Tracey of Greencastle, reported that Jennifer, Tonia, and Brandi handed out 3,000 samples of apple juice and sold 126 gallons of cider in three days of promotions during Ag Weekend at the Chambersburg Mall.

Jennifer Witmer, 1992 Franklin County Apple Queen, crowns her successor, Heidi Martin.

eating area you will be amazed by the largeness of the rooms and cathedral ceiling which allows for much daylight to enter. The kitchen features light oak cabinets and track lighting with a large bar area surrounded with oak and rush seat bar stools.

Jonathan Davenport, chef, The Black Horse Restaurant and Tavern, Route 272, Denver, will be dishing up a house specialty along with his beautiful garnishes. Designs by Norma of the Ephrata Flower Shop, 15 N. State Street, Ephrata, will be decorating this home.

• Another home on the tour is owned by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Weaver, 914 Martin Avenue, Ephrata. Traditional and elegant describes this two-story brick colonial home built by Mr. Weaver in 1992. Mr. Weaver has been a builder and developer for more than 14 years. Upon entering the open two-story foyer with its tile flooring and open stairway, you can look to your right into the formal dining room with its unusual ceiling which adds to the beauty. The formal living room with fireplace is to the left. Follow the tile flooring straight ahead to a large eat-in kitchen that boasts cherry cabinetry. Light colored counter tops and flooring give a sharp contrast to the cherry wood. Stepping down into the open family room with its large brick fireplace and built-in cherry entertainment center, you can see how everything was carefully planned by the owners. Off the family room is an enclosed porch area and off the kitchen eating area is an open patio and a nearby in-ground pool. This home sets on two acres, has over 3,750 square feet of living space, several fireplaces and five bedrooms.

Johann Freeseman, owner, The Olde Lincoln House, 1398 West Main Street, Ephrata, and his chef, will be serving two of their food specialties for sampling. Country Charm House, 247 West Main Street, Leola, along with Marie Eidemiller, designer, will provide decorations for this home.

• Mr. and Mrs. Michael R. Lyons, 1124 Joann Avenue, Ephrata, have opened their home for the tour. Built in 1984, this eleven room, brown English tudor style home features a large entrance area with spruce hardwood flooring. Two refinished antique chairs grace the foyer as well as stenciling and framed counted cross stitch that Mrs. Lyons has done. To the left is the living with family room combination with its brick fireplace and ceiling beams. On the dropped beams, the Lyons have placed a train complete with track, that runs the length of the room and hopefully will be running the day of the Tour. To the right is the dining room which showcases several pieces of family collectibles such as the old sewing machine, a roll top desk, a highchair holding Mrs. Lyons old baby doll and her grandmother's washstand. The large eat in kitchen has custom built cherry cabinets with brass accents. Armstrong flooring and beige counters finish off the kitchen.

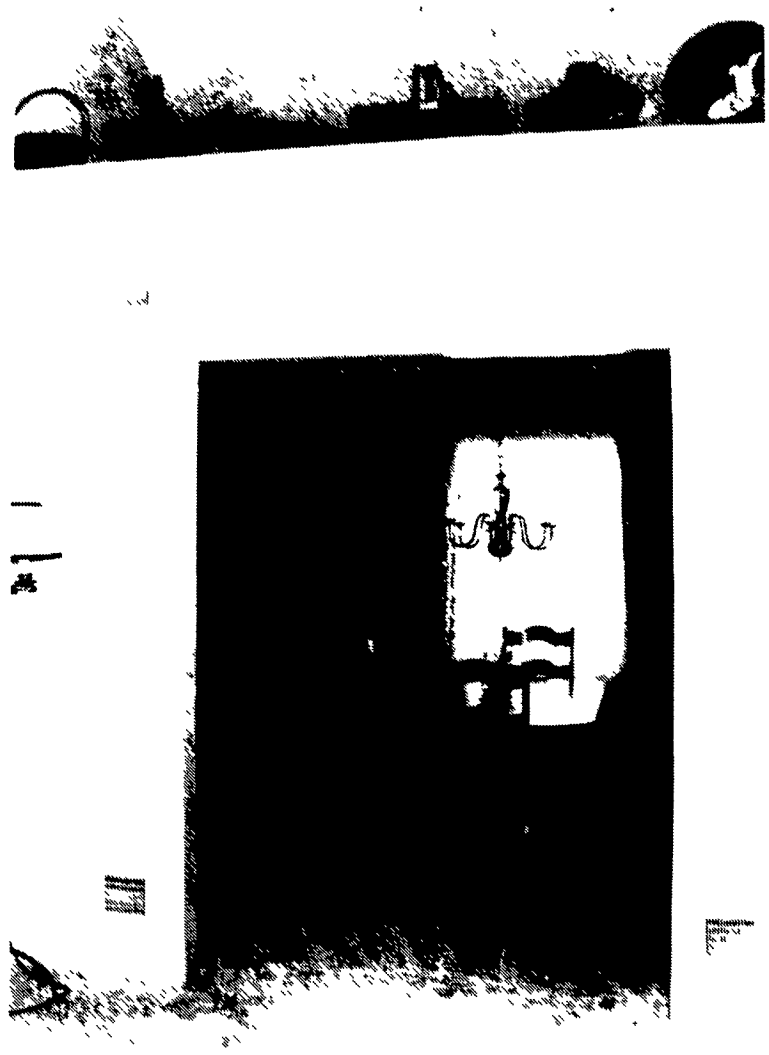
Isaac's Restaurant and Deli, located in the Cloister Shopping Center, along Route 272, Ephrata, will be serving food samples. Foster's Flowers of 321 South 7th Street, Akron, will be doing the flower arranging in this home.

• Mr. and Mrs. David Wilhide, 36 Ashland Drive, Ephrata, will open their home for the Tulip Tour. This English tudor bi-level home with a split foyer has a family room with a cozy look and an unusual coved ceiling. On the fireplace mantel is a display of redware pottery made by Ned Foltz. In the foyer an old chicken crate holds the teddy bears from their childhood days. As you look around the early American living room and dining room, take note of the other teddy bears that are placed appropriately for you to enjoy. In the kitchen the cabinets are of pecan wood with batten-hatch doors. Sliding glass doors open to a large deck overlooking a fenced in yard.

Diamond Station, a specialty coffee and gourmet foods store, located at 1160 S. State Street, Ephrata, will provide the food samples in the Wilhide home. Creative Classics with Kim Zimmerman, the owner and designer, 225 S. Conestoga Drive, Akron, will add her festive touch by creating unique and beautiful arrangements in this home.

• The home owned by Mr. and Mrs. David Woffington, 7 Brook Circle, Ephrata, says "Welcome" all over. The personalities of the homeowners shine throughout every room. Red roosters are predominatly displayed in various forms letting you know that home is a hen's domain. Located in a cul-de-sac, this colonial style green home features mostly traditional and contemporary furnishings. When you enter the entrance hall, to the left is the formal living room and to the right is the formal dining room. Straight ahead you enter the galley type kitchen with a cheerful eating area featuring a rooster centerpiece. Off the eating area, blue full length vertical blinds compliment the sliding glass doors to the southern exposed deck that provides a picturesque view of Martin's Pond. The kitchen is red with roosters, has white flooring and blue wallpaper which accents the oak woodwork. From the kitchen you step down to a comfortable family room with light furnishings lending itself to relaxation. Reflections Restaurant, 1390 Oregon Road, Leola, will have one of their food specialties to sample. Lorraine Zimmerman, designer from Esbenshade Greenhouses and Florists of Route 322 West, Ephrata, will decorate this home.

The Kitchen Tour is a project of the Ways and Means committee of the Woman's Club of Ephrata. All proceeds are donated to local charities.



The Fletcher home has many areas where Diane's collection of baskets is displayed.

Ideas and recipes for the food served at each home during the Tulip Tour are available. This was prepared by Fox Chase, the restaurant preparing the food in the Fletchers' kitchen.

Fox Chase Rooted In Farm

play a game of Parchesi with her.

Until two weeks ago, cows were still kept in the barn, but the Graybills sold the herd because they have become too busy with the golf course and restaurant business.

Doug and Sean Molignoni, head chef at Fox Chase, will serve chicken strips with dijon marinade during the tour.

Tickets cost $6 in advance and $7 the day of the tour. No tickets will be sold at the individual homes on the day of the Tour, but they may be purchased at the Church of the Brethren on the day of the Tour, April 26. For advance tickets, please send a stamped, self-addressed business size #10 envelope with a check payable to the Woman's Club of Ephrata, to Mrs. Elsie Minnich, 1141 Joann Avenue, Ephrata, PA. 17522 or by calling (717) 733-1075 or (717) 733-3528.

Here are two recipes that are popular at the restaurant, which is open seven days a week year around.

Although 92 years old, Mazie Graybill swings a golf club on the ground that she and her husband farmed. With her are Ben Witter, head pro; and four generations of her family, Steve Graybill, who oversees the golf course; Steve's daughter Shannon; Maizie's daughter Stephanie Graybill Weaver and daughter Samantha, and Mazie's son Arthur.

HOW AND WHEN TO GET YOUR IPM PROGRAM STARTED

Charles W. Pitts
Professor of Entomology

The most critical time in initiating an integrated pest management program for layers is in the spring. The temperature will be increasing and conditions for fly development will be optimum.

Many of the high-rise houses will be scheduled for clean out in the next several months, so producers must be ready to attack the fly control problem in the chicken houses.

The manure should be spread and plowed in as soon as possible. After the house has been cleaned out and new birds are being put in place, the producer should develop a routine for managing the fly populations.

The following list is a general guideline for initiating a pest management program in high-rise layer houses.

1) After clean out and disinfection, fog the house to kill the remaining flies.

2) Spray walls with residual insecticide.

3) Put chickens in.

4) Order pupal parasites. One parasite for every two chickens. The parasites should arrive in one week and then the parasites should emerge in 5-7 days. Parasites should be released weekly for 4 weeks. If you have had good results using Cyromizine (Larvadex), you may want to start feeding at the beginning of the cycle; however, if your results with the feed through have been questionable, I would wait for research results on the degree of resistance of Cyromizine to the house fly in Pennsylvania.

5) Put up monitoring traps or spot cards (5 x 7 inches) to assess the fly population. At least 10 jugs or cards should be hung evenly throughout the pit. Fog when the number of flies exceeds 250 flies per trap or 50 spots per card. Do not spray on the same day you release parasites. Early fogging is important early in the life cycle to keep fly numbers as low as possible.

6) Develop routine monitoring schedule for leaky waterers. Good manure management is essential.

7) Routinely look for larval development in the manure. If maggots are found, you can do one of two things: Shovel maggots into wheel barrow and take outside and destroy or spot spray with larvicide. Inspection of the pit should be done at least twice a week for the first eight weeks or until coning has occurred and drying of the manure has begun.

8) Continue all of your monitoring chores and fog as needed. This series of chores, if done regularly, will provide adequate fly control in a high-rise layer house. Keep records of all pest management applications as well as the pertinent management chores that apply to pest management. Records of the number of flies caught in the monitoring jugs or the number of spots on the spot cards could prove to be valuable data if problems should emerge. These data will also provide the information necessary to do a financial analysis of the pest control costs.

9) Remember that the first 8 weeks of the cycle is the most important for establishing good fly control. As the outside temperature rises and the fans run more, the better the manure will dry out. This, along with other management techniques, will help reduce the fly population in the houses and will set the stage for a good fly control program for the remainder of the fly season.

If you need help in conducting the fly control program, contact your county agent or the Department of Entomology at Penn State, (814) 863-7789.

Baldy Marketing, Certification Plan Draws Interest

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Bolstered by widespread interest and industry leader endorsement, the American Baldy Beef Council is on target with it's July inauguration date.

Formed by the American Polled Hereford Association (APHA), the Council is offering alternative ways for cattlemen to add value to their cattle, cut costs, and produce quality beef through marketing and certification services for Baldy cattle.

"I'm convinced the Polled Hereford breed and its breeders are on the right track with their Baldy program," said Dr. Bill Mies of Texas A&M University, an industry-recognized expert on total quality management. "Pursuing 'excellence every time' is how we reach the quality level consumers are demanding from our product. The APHA Baldy program is a tool that should be embraced fully."

Initial services provided by the Council include a marketing service for superior Baldy cattle, which are universally recognized as the animals most in demand by producers and feeders. The program also features a certification plan which allows for quality and genetic documentation throughout the production chain.

"A nationwide network of qualified, professional sales representatives will create a direct link with producers on a local level," said Dennis Schock, APHA vice president who is in charge of the Baldy program. "Baldy sales representatives will offer certification and marketing services and will serve as advisors for the production of high quality, profitable Baldy cattle."

For more information, contact the American Baldy Beef Council, 11020 N.W. Ambassador Dr., Kansas City, MO 64153, (816) 891-8400.

Holocaust Survivor Protects Dairy Farm

READING (Berks Co.) — A Holocaust survivor who came to the U.S. on a proverbial "wing and a prayer" and built a fledgling tool and die company into a nationally recognized hardware powerhousse has permanently protected a beloved part of his adopted land.

Severin Fayerman, chairman of Baldwin Hardware Corp. in Reading, sold his 150-acre Bertolet Mill Road Farm in Oley Township to American Farmland Trust, a national farmland conservation group based in Washington, D.C. AFT will place a permanent agricultural conservation easement on the property before reselling it to an Old Order Mennonite farmer at a price well below its development value.

The easement ensures the farm's agricultural resources, open space, and scenic qualities will be maintained forever. All farming practices must also adhere to a county-approved conservation plan.

Fayerman is a Polish immigrant who spent his teen years in a Nazi concentration camp only to later see his family's forging business confiscated by the Polish communist regime. He calls the farm's protection a tribute to the country that welcomed him and gave his family a chance to succeed.

"After having survived in a concentration camp for two years, I consider myseslf fortunate to be alive and to have been able to come to this country and have such tremendous opportunities," he said.

"In its own way, protecting the farm is my thank-you to Berks County and America for allowing me to build a successful company. I bought the farm from someone who wanted to develop it, and now with the help of American Farmland Trust, I've been able to permanently prevent that from ever happening. Now there's something for posterity."

In recent years, residential growth pressures from the Reading and Philadelphia areas have posed an increasing threat to farms in Berks County. Fayerman has engaged in something of a crusade against uncontrolled urban growth, acquiring and maintaining four farms about to be developed.

Bertolet Mills Road Farm was slated to become a 51-unit subdivision before he bought the farm. Fayerman keeps the engineer's drawing of the subdivision layout as an ever-present reminder. "Many farmers sell to developers when they believe no other options are available," he said. "What a crime it is to see these fertile soils turned into developments."

The farm sits on some of the finest agricultural land in the eastern U.S. Nearly all of the soil ranks at or near the top in productivity among Berks County soils. The farm, a modern dairy, consists of a dairy barn with 51 stalls, milkhouse, dry cow barns, silos, silo shed, and hay and equipment barn.

"We are grateful that Severin Fayerman decided to protect this critically important piece of farmland in one of the most significant agricultural areas of the state," said Dennis Bidwell, AFT's director of land protection. "His commitment to farmland protection is one to be admired and we hope emulated by other farm owners in the Oley Valley."

MULTIPLE SITE PRODUCTION

Most producers by now have heard of multiple site production, often referred to as medicated early weaning (MEW). The system involves weaning pigs at a fairly early age into an off-site nursery, followed by a finishing period which occurs at yet another site.

While it seems to be catching on in large operations as a tool to reduce disease cycles, there are some obvious limitations for moderate-sized and smaller operations.

Purpose Of MEW

Many of the disease problems that pigs encounter are spread from the sow to the pig in the farrowing house. In some cases, especially respiratory disease, the problem is then magnified in the nursery.

Using some "old" concepts of immunity, the MEW system helps to break the normal cycle of disease spread from the sow to the pig. Prior to farrowing, sows in this system are vaccinated for a number of diseases. This improves the immune status of the sow and increases antibodies in the milk against these diseases.

The immune protection is passed to the baby pigs through the colostrum. During the weeks that follow, when passive immunity is at its highest level, pathogenic organisms seldom get a foothold in these young pigs.

While pigs are in this window of protection, they're weaned from the sow and moved to another location. And, we hope, two benefits will result. First, the spread of disease from the sow to the pig (vertical transmission) will be minimized. Second, since the nursery is isolated from the farm of origin, transmission of disease from the home farm is also blocked (horizontal transmission).

Benefits

Producers have observed a reduction in days to market of at least 5-7 days, and in some cases more than 30 days.

A recent newsletter published by Central Soya Research reported increases of more than 30 pounds in weight gain during the nursery phase as a result of medicated early weaning practices.

Producers have also seen decreases in mortality, "poor-doing" pigs, as well as improvements in feed efficiency.

Factors To Consider

Weaning age. The appropriate age may depend, in part, on the nature of the disease. But most producers wean in the range of 10-21 days.

Sow productivity. Litter size and conception rate may suffer as sows are weaned under three weeks. A potential loss of one pig born live must be weighed against the expected benefits. So even though sows can potentially be bred back sooner, their annual productivity may remain unchanged or even drop after switching to MEW. Some producers using the MEW system delay breeding for one heat cycle to provide time for the sow to recover.

Sow parity. Dr. Nate Winkleman, a veterinarian from Morris, Minn., recommends the use of older parity sows for MEW systems. Pigs originating from gilt litters are often lighter and exhibit higher mortality rates at weaning than those from second or later-parity sows. It's also generally accepted that the concentration of colostral antibodies are higher in older parity sows.

Vaccination and medication. The types of vaccines and medications should be selected in consultation with a knowledgeable veterinarian. Being too conservative with the number of products used may reduce the effectiveness of the program, whereas going "overboard" with vaccines and drugs may needlessly add to the cost.

Isolated unit. How far is it to the unit? Who will manage the unit? Will numbers of pigs in the nursery unit be enough to justify a full-time the manager, who can then avoid contact with home farm? These are critical questions for which there may be no answers for some producers when they seriously consider MEW. A minimum separation between farms appears to be two miles.

Sow herd size. Some experts suggest that 2,000 sows at the home farm would be the ideal size for "driving" the isolated nursery. Obviously, most farms are much smaller than this, which leads some producers to combine pigs from several breeding sites. Attempting to run an MEW system with a small herd may increase overhead costs so much that they outweigh the benefits.

Sanitation. Unless all-in-all-out can be part of the program, MEW shouldn't even be considered.

Diet and facilities. No weak spots can be tolerated in either the feed or the facilities. Use a highly digestible feed and keep the groups small. Weaning pigs at ages of less than 10 days almost certainly will require the need for liquid diets. Even pigs at two weeks of age will not perform well unless the diet contains a high percentage of milk products, and probably dried porcine plasma as well.

Summary

MEW early weaning shows potential for eliminating disease, or at least reducing the harmful effects of a disease. For producers that have an isolated nursery, and perhaps an isolated finisher, this concept may be worth considering. Otherwise, producers may have to pool their production to make MEW practical.

While considering the alternatives, it may be wise to see how MEW shakes out in the next year or two.

Dealers To Offer 18-Speed Powershift Transmission

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — At a special product introduction held for its White dealers, AGCO Corporation introduced a state-of-the-art 18-speed, full powershift transmission in its new line of 6100 Series high-horsepower tractors. The new powershift is standard on four distinct new models in seven configurations.

Built at AGCO's Independence, Mo., facility, the 6125, at 121 PTO HP, the 6145, at 140 PTO HP, the 6175, at 166 PTO HP, and the 6195 at 192 PTO HP, are available in two-wheel-drive (except the 6195) and power front axle, with all models offering an improved deluxe cab and completely new styling.

The new full powershift transmission provides 18 forward and nine reverse speeds and the luxury of power shifting on-the-go with single-lever electronic control. The same lever, incorporated into the seat-mounted control console, will regulate shuttle shifting from forward to reverse without clutching.

"The high-horsepower White 6100 Series powershift tractors provide our dealers with a totally new entry into this market," said John M. Shumejda, executive vice president and chief operating officer of AGCO, the White parent company. "With the addition of these four innovative new tractors to the existing White mid-size and Workhorse models, dealers can now offer their customers a complete line of tractors ranging from 63 to 192 PTO horsepower."

The advanced powershift transmission efficiently and accurately puts power where it's needed. Electronic control and pulse shifting allow the automatic "speed matching" feature to instantly match transmission gear to engine and ground speeds. A programmable shift feature for forward and reverse shuttling make frequent speed and direction changes easy for loader applications.

The cab-forward design of the 6100 series provides a smoother ride and a better view of what is in front and to the sides. It also greatly improves the line of sight to the rear hitch. A Grammer air-ride seat with automatic load control swivels to the right 10 degrees and left 20 degrees, making work around the vehicle easy and is convenient for entering and exiting the cab. A folding passenger seat with a seatbelt has been added to the left console.

The transmission and throttle levers, rear differential lock and power front axle controls are positioned in the seat's right-hand control console and swivel with the seat. This arrangement makes shifting movements comfortable and logical and single gear selection is easy in rough field conditions.

The optional power front axle, standard on the 6195, has been redesigned to allow on-the-go engagement and disengagement for varying field conditions. This convenient new feature gives the farmer the power of four-wheel-drive without slowing or stopping the vehicle.

White's in-line cylinder, liquid-cooled Cummins diesel engine furnishes efficient power at all speeds while maintaining good fuel economy. A turbocharger delivers more power, torque, and operating efficiency. The nose cowling and front panels that remove without tools, along with a one-piece hood that tilts up from the back, make for easy engine access.

The full powershift transmission on the 166 PTO HP White 6175 high-horsepower tractor is a component on a tractor that has been completely redesigned for operating efficiency and versatility. With 18 forward and nine reverse speeds, the operator can pre-select speeds, sequentially shift and automatically match speed to the load. The 6175's cab-forward design, sloped hood, and rerouted exhaust stack provide an unobstructed view of the field.

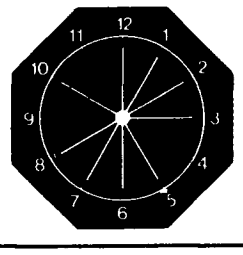
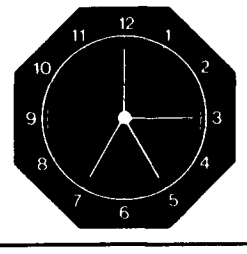
DRAG AUGER FEEDING SCHEDULE?



BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN FEEDER FEEDING SCHEDULE!



How often do your feeders run in a day? It is generally necessary to operate drag auger feeders as many as eight or more times per day because of limited feeding space and the small quantity of feed presented at one time That creates tremendous competition for the little feed available. The result of this competition is damaged eggs from feet, toes and collisions Big Dutchman chain feeders can feed your flock by running as few as three or four times a day, with little competition for feed, a calmer flock and fewer cracks and checks

Drivers Provide Easy Post Alignment

LITCHFIELD, Ill. — The new Worksaver power ram hydraulic center mount post drivers, Models HPD-16HC and HPD-20HC, are equipped with 3-point mounts that use hydraulic cylinders for quick positioning and effortless alignment.

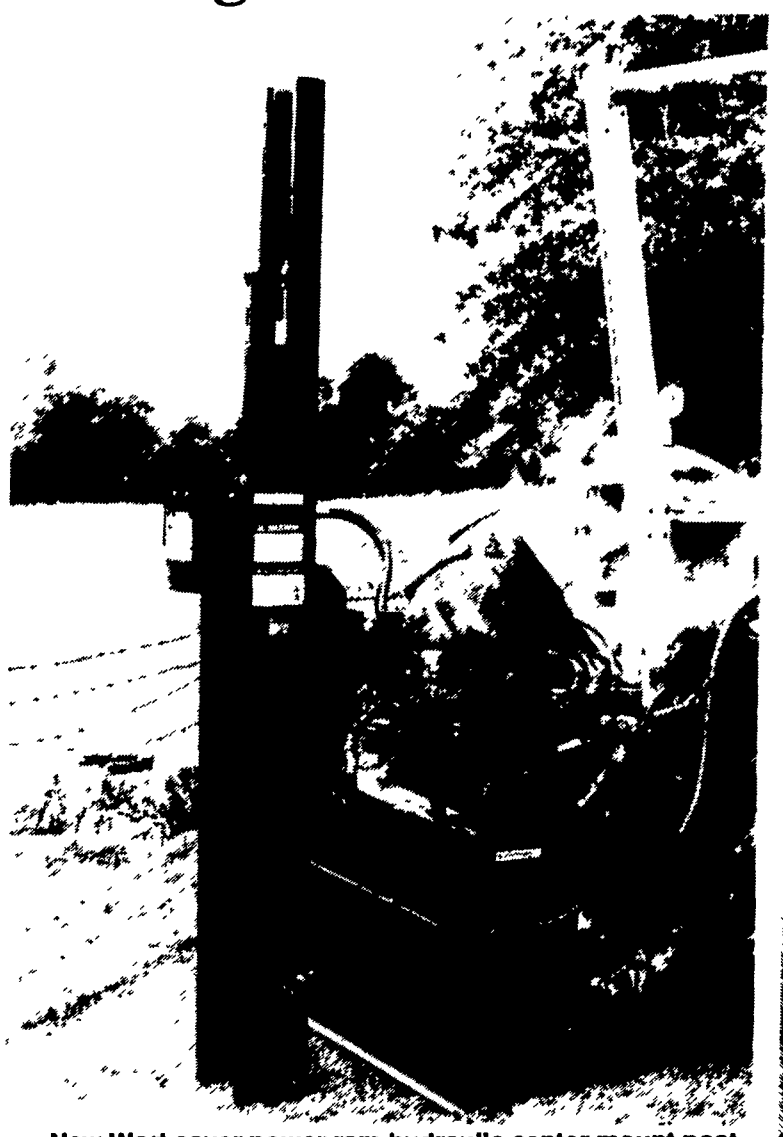
Engineered to handle all standard size wood or steel posts, the drivers deliver up to 40 heavy impact strokes per minute without "mushrooming" posts. They fit Category I or II 3-point hitches.

The hydraulically operated drivers are easy to use and feature two 3 inch x 6 inch cylinders which adjust driver angle and a two-spool valve that operates hydraulic positioning cylinders on open or closed center systems. A post safety holder helps start post and a bubble target level ensures post is being driven straight. Under normal conditions post does not need to be pointed.

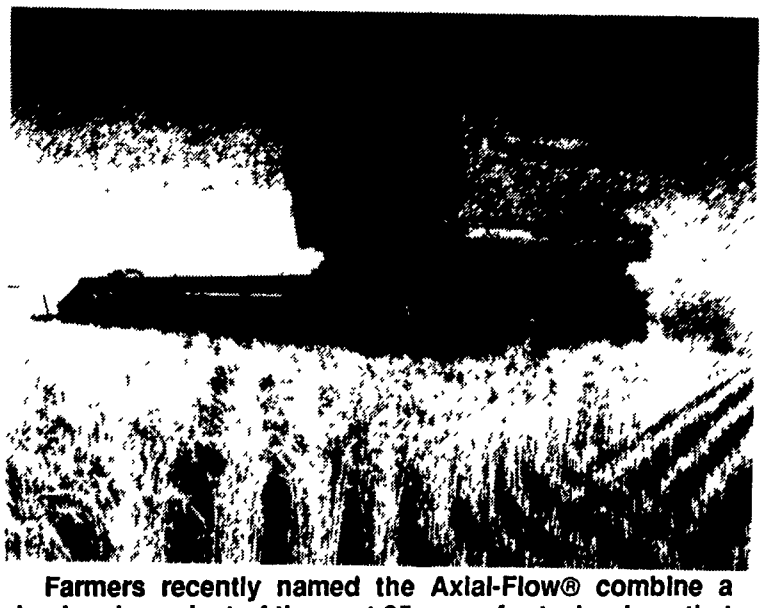
Other features include patent pending, long life, ultra high molecular weight polyethylene slide blocks, I-beam driving head with heavy duty spring assist, and chrome-plated high tensile steel cylinder rod. Main pivot and bearing points have grease zerks for easy lubrication and long life.

Stabilizer base which allows up to 500 pounds of weight to be added is standard on both models.

For more information, contact Worksaver, Inc., P. O. Box 100, Litchfield, IL 62056-0100, (217) 324-5973.



New Worksaver power ram hydraulic center mount post drivers, Models HPD-16HC and HPD-20HC, are equipped with 3-point mounts that use hydraulic cylinders for quick positioning and effortless alignment.



Farmers recently named the Axial-Flow® combine a landmark product of the past 25 years for technology that provides a gentler, more efficient harvest. Shown here with a grain header is the new Case International 1688 Axial-Flow combine, which delivers 260 net engine horsepower at 2,200 rpm.

Combine Becomes Landmark Product

RACINE, Wis. — In a survey recently released by Farm Industry News, a leading U.S. agricultural publication, farmers identified the Axial-Flow® combine among the products they felt had the most impact on their farming operations in the last 25 years.

The Case International Axial-Flow combines feature a single large-diameter rotor that replaces the cylinder, grates, and straw walkers used in conventional threshing systems. Dealers report better quality grain and more of it.

Gerry Salzman, Case product manager-combines, pointed out that Axial-Flow technology continues to offer superior advantages. "In its advertising, the competition implies gentle grain handling, but the same patented Axial-Flow technology that revolutionized combining when it was introduced in 1977 remains exclusive to Case International combines," he said.

"Of course, we've made many improvements to the combines through the years," Salzman said. "Most recently, we introduced the higher horsepower 1644, 1666, and 1688. These feature an improved fan that provides better air quality to the cleaning system. The new Cross Flow™ fan is also patented technology offered only on Axial-Flow combines."

Hardie Irrigation's new micro-irrigation jet, Snap Jet™, features seven interchangeable snap-on splash plates for versatility.

Micro-Irrigation Jet Allows Fast Pattern Changes

EL CAJON, Calif. — Hardie Irrigation introduces Snap-Jet, a micro-irrigation jet for growers of trees, vines, and other permanent crops.

The new jet features seven interchangeable snap-on splash plates that allow growers to adapt spray patterns to various growth stages of their crops without major alteration to their irrigation system.

Snap-Jet is compatible with Hardie's popular Blue-Stripe™ polyethylene hose. It is available in seven wetting patterns and is color-coded for flow rate identification. The seven different splash plates are designed to easily snap on and off the jet body for fast changes and ease of maintenance.

Growers farming on sloped terrain may achieve uniform distribution by combining the Snap-Jet with Hardie's Equalizer™ jet stake assembly. Both pressure compensating and non-pressure compensating versions are available completely assembled on a 12-inch Hardie jet stake with a 24-inch or 36-inch lead.

Snap-Jet now is available at Hardie dealerships. For more information or for the location of dealers representing Hardie products, growers may call (800) 333-8125 (El Cajon, Calif. office) or (800) 223-2701 (Sanford, Fla. office). Growers in Florida may call (800) 634-2647.

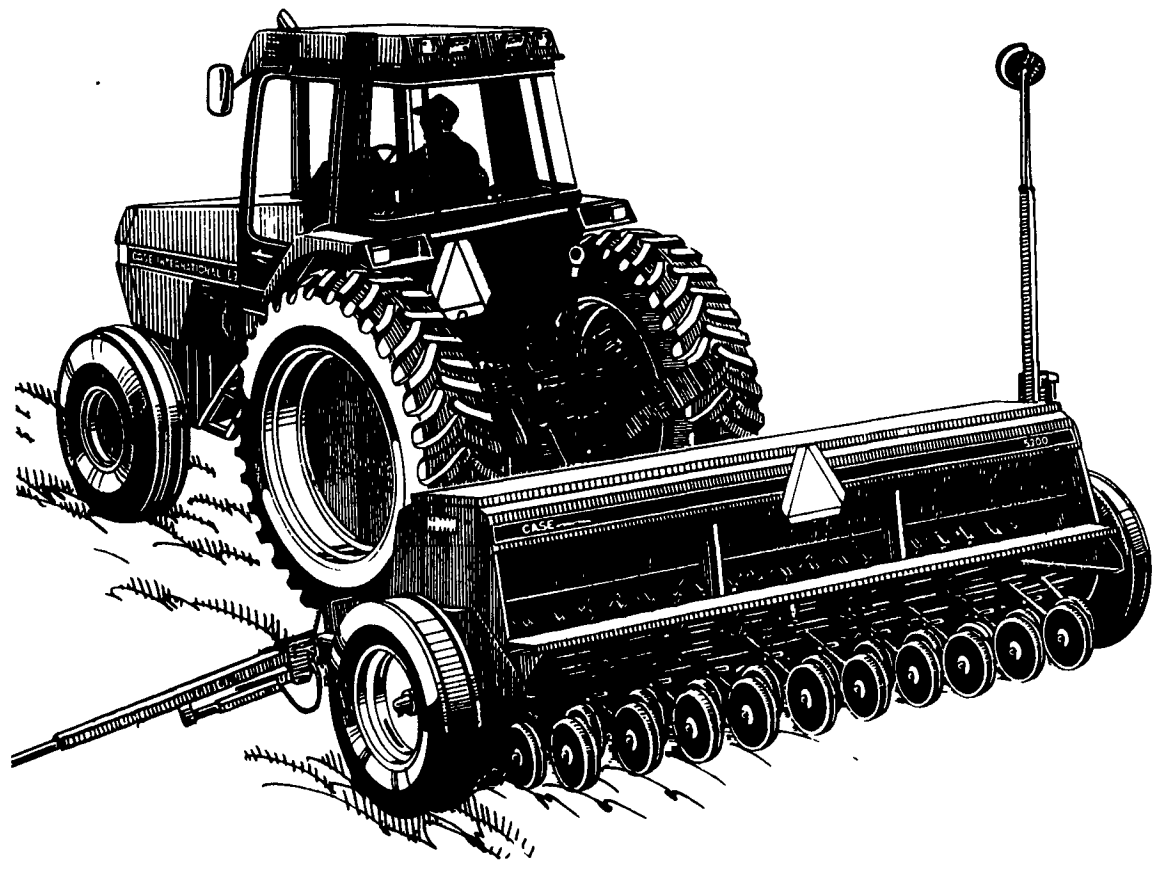
Get Even Stands



There's nothing more important to a crop than early, even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding, and a Case International 5300 End-Wheel Drill.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheel and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers.

Stop in and see the 5300 End-Wheel Drill today.

Soil And Water Week Set

WESTCHESTER (Chester Co.) — April 25 through May 2, 1993 has been designated this years' Soil and Water Stewardship Week by the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD). The NACD has been sponsoring the Stewardship observance for the past 38 years in order to "encourage individual responsibility to care for our valued resources." The program emphasizes the idea that individuals can make a difference in keeping our environment clean and preserving our natural resources.

This year, the Stewardship Week theme is Hands of Healing. It focuses on all areas of good conservation practices, but particularly soil erosion, water quality, energy conservation and preserving ecosystems. The Healing Hands represent our ability to reach out and contribute to the protection and preservation of our environment, and help to correct the environmental problems we are faced with today.

Local Conservation Districts work throughout the year to promote soil and water conservation and environmental awareness. Materials designed with the 1993 theme Hands of Healing are available from your local district office. The Chester County Conservation District has posters, bookmarks and literature for educators and individuals.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The New Uses Council has recently hired Mark Dungan to be its president and CEO.

"It is a real pleasure to announce the hiring of Mark to be the New Uses Council President and CEO," said Jeff Gain, chairman of the council.

As former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ed Madigan's chief advocate for new market development, Dungan has been an enthusiastic and effective proponent for industrial uses of farm products or renewable resources, according to the council.

As president and CEO of the New Uses Council, Dungan will be working with the membership to establish a national office and develop an aggressive and active promotion program to inform industry, the general public, the media, and policymakers of the many benefits and virtues of "homegrown" renewable resources.

The council will work closely with government agencies, private industry, entrepreneurs, the research community, and others to accelerate the development and commercialization of renewable resource-based products.

"Today, when people think of agriculture they do not think of industrial and consumer products. We are going to change that," Dungan said. "We are going to convince American industry to use homegrown renewable resources to produce a new generation of environmentally friendly products and materials."

The economics and demands of the marketplace are changing. "New scientific tools, technology, and environmental considerations are combining to create an unprecedented opportunity for renewable resources in the industrial marketplace," Dungan said.

New products are already reaching the marketplace, including fully degradable disposable eating utensils, biodegradable packaging materials, printing inks, de-icers, biodegradable lubricants for use on machinery operating in environmentally sensitive areas, decorative building materials made from soybean protein and waste paper, and environmentally friendly fuels such as ethanol and diesel fuel made from vegetable oil, waste cooking oils, and animal fat.

"The development and commercialization of these products and others can put idled cropland back in production, create jobs and economic opportunity in rural America, help clean and protect our environment, and enhance the nation's energy security. The New Uses Council is going to take that message to everyone that will listen," Dungan said.

Fastener Makes Debut On Barbed Wire

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. — Famers and ranchers familiar with Red Brand barbed wire fencing will find something new on every reel of the product.

Beginning in February 1993, every reel of Red Brand barbed wire shipped by the manufacturer, Keystone Steel & Wire Co., Peoria, Ill., will have a new "Gripple" fastener attached to the end of the wire.

This revolutionary product, offered exclusively on reels of Red Brand barbed wire, makes splicing and installation of the fence wire a much faster and easier operation.

According to John Lenart, general sales manager, wire products for Keystone, "Putting Gripples onto reels of Red Brand barbed wire is one of the most useful developments for cattle ranchers and farmers since the invention of barbed wire itself a hundred years ago. This should cause a lot of excitement and interest, particularly with the spring fencing season rapidly approaching."

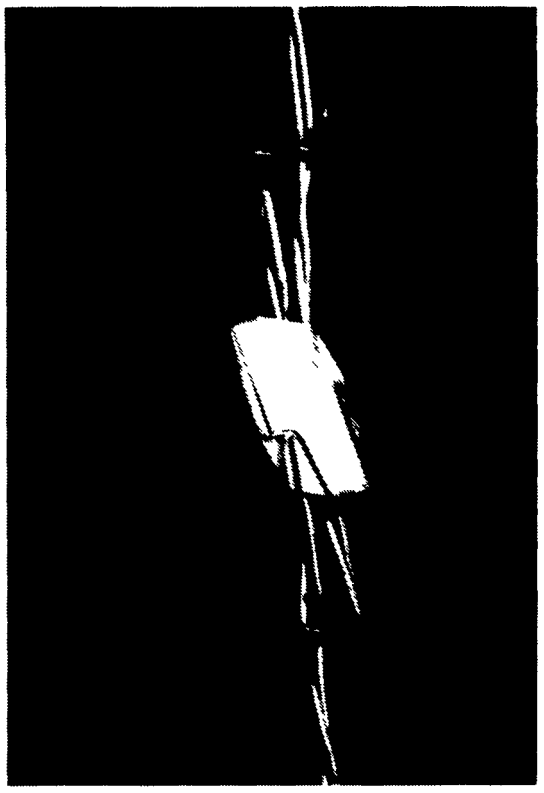
Each Gripple fastener, the size and shape of a man's finger, has holes on both ends. Wire inserted into the fastener is held in place by spring tension. Any backward motion of the wire locks it securely in place.

"The action is much like finger hand-cuffs you find in novelty stores," said Lenart, "only much more secure." Once inserted, the barbed wire is almost impossible to remove without cutting. Like Red Brand barbed wire, Gripples are rust-resistant, strong and long-lasting.

Keystone markets four styles of Red Brand barbed wire — the 12½-gauge "Defender" in the 2-point barbed style and 12½-gauge "Ruthless" and 13½-gauge "Savage" in the 4-point barbed style. Reels of 15½-gauge high tensile Red Brand barbed wire in the 4-point style will also offer the on-reel Gripple as part of the introductory program.

"We expect an enthusiastic reception for this new product, and we are working hard to get it into distribution as fast as possible," said Lenart. "This is really the first big development in barbed wire fencing since its introduction a century ago."

For the name of the nearest Red Brand dealer, call (800) 635-7500, or contact Keystone Steel & Wire Co., 7000 S.W. Adams St., Peoria, IL 61641, (309) 697-7020.



Red Brand® barbed wire now has Gripple® fastener on every reel to make splicing a "snap." Cutaway shows unique Gripple construction.

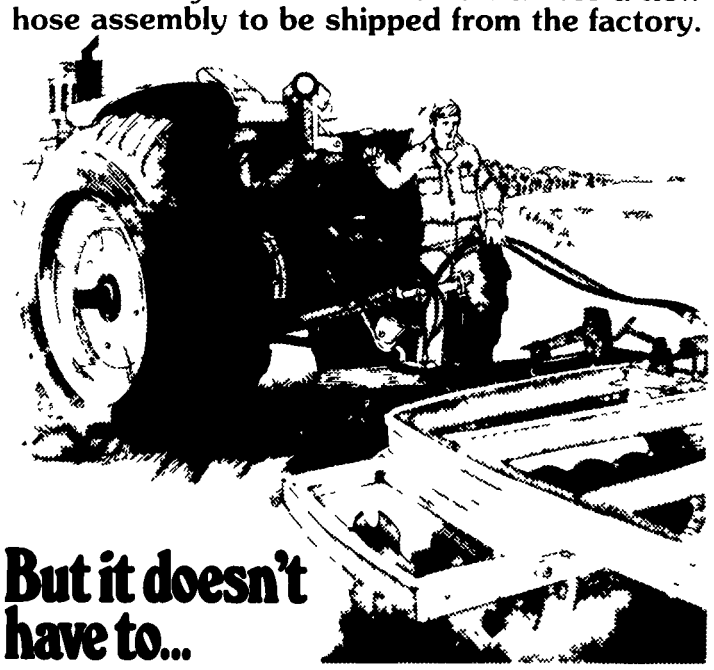
... in lost or damaged crops. When there's work to be done in the fields it's important to keep your farm machinery on the job. When there's a breakdown you can't afford to wait for a new hose assembly to be shipped from the factory.



But it doesn't have to...

WE MAKE HOSE ASSEMBLIES WHILE YOU WAIT ... assemblies which are exactly like the original and better! To put your equipment back to work in the fields fast. You don't lose valuable time, don't lose crops.

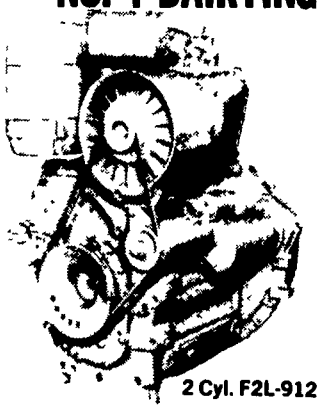
NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL



2 Cyl. F2L-912

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

HIGH TENSILE FENCE...THE FARMER'S BEST INVESTMENT

Testimonial from a very satisfied customer

The Beaver Fence Systems are tops! We installed 1 mile of their fence on our farm on Feb. 3, 1993, full size post, 3-1/2 feet deep, excellent braces. We used 5 strand (2 elec.) high tensil, all in place in just 8-1/2 hours! The fence is as straight as an arrow-excellent equipment-very efficient work!

"I am a hard man to convince, but after I saw how Beaver built the fence, I'm ready to put my digging iron away," says David W. Brubaker of Honey Grove Acres, RD1, Box 629 Honey Grove, PA 17035

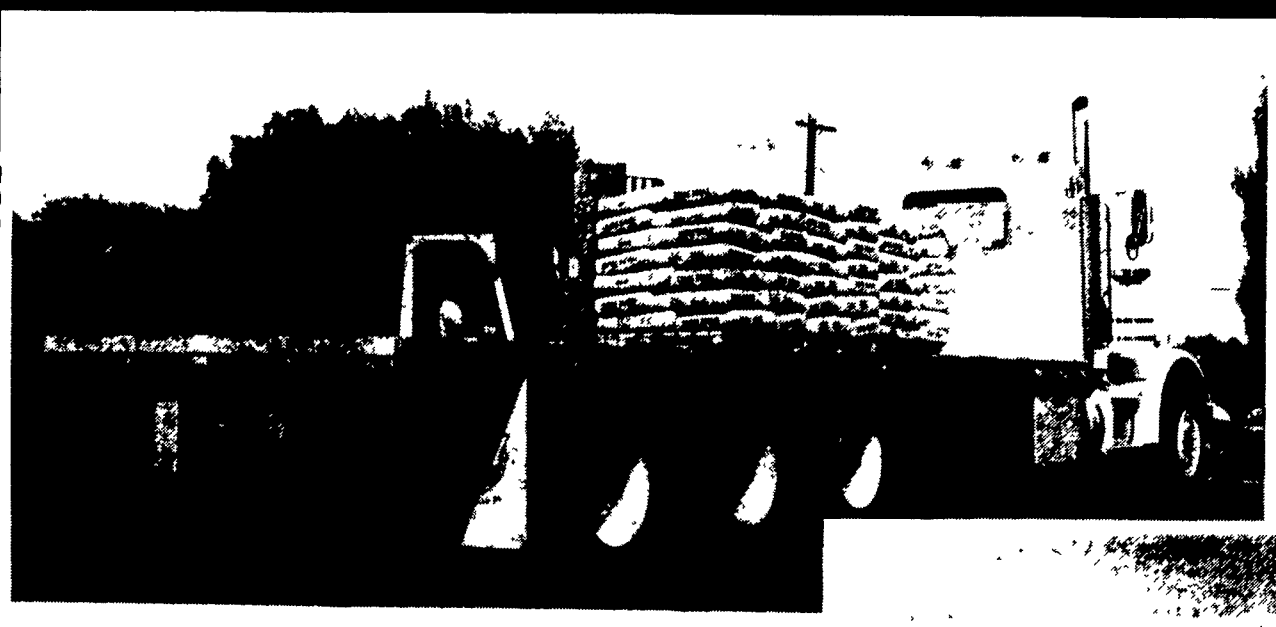
EBY ALUMINUM FLATBEDS: WE MAKE HARD WORK LOOK GOOD



On the farm or in the city, Eby aluminum flatbed bodies are built for your toughest hauling jobs. Their all-welded construction features 3" aluminum I-beam crossmembers (4" I-beams on bodies 16' and longer) on 12" centers, heavy side rub rail and aluminum diamond floor plate. A full list of options includes slated or solid aluminum sides, tool boxes and tire carrier.

Eby aluminum construction is up to 40% lighter than steel, so you get more payload capacity. The corrosion-resistant aluminum never needs painting and requires minimum maintenance but gives you maximum resale value. That's a winning combination to complement any truck.

In standard lengths to 32 feet and 5 widths from 78 to 102 inches, there's an Eby aluminum flatbed that's matched to your requirements. With Eby value and quality, hard work can look good.

Worldwide Competitiveness Grows

PRINCETON, N.J. — The United States tobacco industry closed the 1992 calendar year with a trade surplus of $4.85 billion, an increase of $62.4 million, or 1.3 percent, when compared to 1991's trade surplus of $4.79 billion, according to the Tobacco Merchants Association (TMA).

Exports of American-made cigarettes reached a record high for the sixth consecutive year, as U.S. cigarette manufacturers exported a record 205.6 billion cigarettes in 1992, up from the previous record of 179.4 billion cigarettes set in 1991. The export value of these shipments, however, was down to $4.19 billion dollars as compared to $4.23 billion in 1991.

"Price hedging, associated with the stronger U.S. dollar, coupled with the price flexibility needed to penetrate financially strapped new American-blend markets with flagship brands yielded a lower average export price per 1,000 cigarettes," said Farrell Delman, president of the TMA.

"At $4.85 billion, the U.S. tobacco industry's trade surplus was the sixth largest contributor, of all U.S. industries, to the positive side of the nation's trade ledger," Delman said, "and nearly the fourth largest contributor given the declines in the competitive performance of the corn and industrial machine industries,"

As in the past several years, airplanes and airplane parts remained the top contributor at $28.42 billion followed by chemicals (all), $16.27 billion; scientific instruments, $6.76 billion; corn, $4.87 billion; specialized industrial machines, $4.85 billion; and tobacco, $4.85 billion. While these industries had positive trade balance contributions, the U.S. imported overall some $84.34 billion more than it exported, up from $65.39 billion in 1991, the first deterioration in the U.S. trade balance in five years.

In 1992, the following 10 destinations, none of which are classified as developing nations, accounted for more than 84 percent of U.S. cigarette exports: Japan (28 percent of total); Belgium (25.9 percent); Hong Kong (8.6 percent); Russia (4.3 percent); Saudi Arabia (3.7 percent); Turkey (3.7 percent); United Arab Emirates (3.3 percent); Lebanon (2.8 percent); South Korea (1.9 percent); and Cyprus (1.9 percent). Delman noted that countries such as Belgium and the United Arab Emirates serve as transshipment points for eastern Europe and the Middle East, respectively.

U.S. cigarette exports have increased dramatically in recent years due to the opening of the key Asian markets of Japan, Taiwan, South Korea and Thailand, deeper penetration within pre-existing cigarette markets in the Middle East, and recent access to markets in Turkey and Eastern Europe, in particular the former Soviet Union.

"U.S. cigarette exports are now permitted to compete in growing markets formerly dominated by a single state monopoly," Delman said. "In order to compete against U.S. cigarettes, known for their high quality the world over, our competitors are now required to use higher quality ingredients, including U.S. tobacco leaf."

At more than 260.5 million kilograms, direct shipments of American-grown leaf tobacco rose 34.1 million kilograms, or 15 percent, in 1992 as the value of these exports increased $108.3 million to $1.65 billion, when compared with 1991. Despite a 21.5 percent increase in imported leaf tobacco, to 325.1 million kilograms, valued at $948.9 million, the $701.7 million net gain on the leaf tobacco side of the trade balance was up nearly 61 percent.

Corn, Sorghum Producers Get Deficiency Payments

LIONVILLE (Chester Co.) — The Chester/Delaware County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will issue final deficiency payments in March to corn and sorghum producers who participated in the 1992 Feed Grain Program.

The total cash disbursement includes 0/92 payments, according to ASCS official Ms. Hollis D. Baker.

"When crop prices fall below targets levels, eligible producers receive deficiency payments," Baker said.

Deficiency payments make up the difference between the established target price and the higher of either the national aveerage basic loan rate for the crop or the national weighted average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the marketing year.

Farmers who requested advanced deficiency payments received $0.49 per bushel for corn and $0.47 per bushel for sorghum. Producers who did not request advance deficiency payments will receive $0.73 per bushel in corn payments and $0.70 per bushel in sorghum payments.

The 0/92 program provision gave farmers the option of underplanting their program crop acreage while still earning program payments.

"These producers were guaranteed to receive no less than the projected deficiency payment rates that were estimated when they enrolled in the 1992 feed grain program," Baker said.

The projected 1992 deficiency payment rates of $0.48 per bushel for corn and $0.46 per bushel for sorghum were lower than the actual rates. Therefore, these producers will be paid on the basis of the actual higher rates.

Target prices for the 1992 crops were $2.75 per bushel for corn and $2.61 per bushel for sorghum. Basic loan rates for the 1992 crops were $2.01 per bushel for corn and $1.91 per bushel for sorghum.

"Crop payments were computed by multiplying the established yield for the farm by the payment acreage by the payment rate," she said.

The ASCS official said 85 Pennsylvania Chester and Delaware County farmers will have received corn and sorghum payments.

Nationally, ASCS will issue about $2.7 billion in cash deficiency payments to eligible producers of 1992 crop corn and sorghum.

NFU Applauds Ethanol Decision

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) President Leland Swenson applauds U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Lloyd Bentsen's decision to exempt ethanol from President Clinton's proposed BTU energy tax.

"After studying the impact of the BTU energy tax on the ethanol and methanol industries in light of the Administration's objective to encourage use of alternative fuels, we have decided to exempt both ethanol and methanol from the energy tax," said Bentsen in a memo to supporters of the ethanol exemption in the U.S. Senate.

Swenson had called for the ethanol exemption in testimony before the U.S. House agriculture subcommittee.

Since President Clinton proposed the BTU tax, NFU has held that ethanol should be exempt and that commercial development of this energy source be a priority. NFU encourages the Clinton Administration to favor on-farm and local cooperative site development of ethanol and other fuels produced from farm products and to establish a schedule for requiring increased usage of ethanol fuels within the United States.

"We believe the exemption of ethanol from the BTU tax is positive in that it recognizes the merits of commercially developing a renewable fuel source," said Swenson. "This is good for our country environmentally, and it will also be positive for U.S. corn producers and ethanol manufacturers."

Farmers Weigh Reduction Benefits

LIONVILLE (Chester Co.) — Now that the acreage reduction sign-up period is under way, producers are studying the 1993 commodity programs and weighing benefits to their farm operations, according to Ms. Hollis D. Baker, Chester/Delaware County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Serivce (ASCS).

"Understandably, loan rates, target prices, deficiency payments, flexibility, and acreage reduction percentages are among their main concerns," Baker said.

Producers have until April 30 to apply for the feed grain and wheat.

The acreage reduction percentages are 10 percent for corn, 5 percent for grain sorghum, and zero percent for wheat, oats, and barley.

"Farmers who meet these and other program requirements will be eligible for target price protection and price support loans on this year's feed grains and wheat," Baker said.

Target prices protect producers' income if market prices are below the target levels. She said farmers need money to operate. Advance deficiency payments provide cash early in the year, and through the price support loan program, farmers can obtain interim financing after harvest while waiting for a better market.

The 1993 target prices are $2.75 per bushel for corn, $2.61 for grain sorghum, $2.36 for barley, $1.45 for oats, and $4 for wheat.

Price support loan rates per bushel are $1.72 for corn, $2.45 for wheat, $1.63 for grain sorghum, $1.40 for barley, $0.88 for oats, and $2.46 for rye.

"When producers sign up for the 1993 programs, they may request 50 percent of the estimated total deficiency payments in advance for program crops," said Baker. "The payments will be issued in cash, limited to the farmer's intended program acreage."

The ASCS official said only producers participating in the 1993 commodity programs will be eligible for benefits on this year's crops.

Harvard Rates Dairy Farmer Funded Research

ARLINGTON, Va. — Dairy farmer-funded research findings headlined a list of the top 10 research discoveries of 1992 in the March 1992 issue of the Harvard Health Letter, a monthly publication of the Harvard Medical School.

In January 1992, researchers, funded by America's dairy farmers via the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board, found the location of a human gene responsible for atherosclerosis, more commonly known as heart disease—the leading killer of both men and women, the Letter said.

The discovery was ranked number one for having the greatest long-range impact on human health and disease by physicians—representing 16 fields of medicine—who serve on the advisory board of the Letter.

The National Dairy Board began funding this research in 1989 by forming the Dairy Research Institute for Genetics and Nutrition as a coalition of Berkeley Laboratory in Berkeley, Calif.; The Jackson Laboratory in Bar Harbor, Maine; and the Children's Hospital Oakland Research Institute in Oakland, Calif.

According to Ron Krauss, Ph.D. and head researcher on the project, "Approximately 15 percent of the population appears to have the gene defect (attributed to risk of heart disease), and benefits by reducing the fat content of their diet, while the remainder of the population either does not benefit or is put at an increased risk of cardiovascular disease by consuming a low fat diet."

Researchers will try to develop a method for easy identification of individuals who need drug therapy and/or special diets so that the majority of the population that does not benefit or is put at a greater risk with diet restriction, can eat a wide range of foods, especially dairy products.

"America's dairy farmers have plenty to be proud of," said Raymond Johnson, New York dairy farmer and chair of the National Dairy Board's dairy foods and nutrition research committee. "The research we are funding is a well-respected, long-term investment. This research can help build a case against today's generalized diets and dietary recommendations which some media and doctors tend to translate into limiting dairy food intake.

"In the end, this research will help consumers protect their health while protecting and building demand for products that start on our dairy farms," Johnson said.

SERT Panel Projects Higher Planted Acreage

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The Soybean Economists Roundtable (SERT) has projected soybean planted acreage of 60 million acres, which is an increase from the 1992 USDA estimate of 59.3 million.

The panel cited a favorable soybean-to-corn price ratio as a primary reason for the increase in area — soybeans planted on flex acreage could be roughly the same as last year. However, they add weather will still be a determining factor in plantings, especially if wet weather delays corn plantings.

SERT members also forecast higher soybean crush and exports for the current marketing year and lower soybean ending stocks.

They estimate exports could reach 780 million bushels, which is up from USDA's March projection of 760 million. Higher exports are based on China's potential need to import oilseeds and lower current global oilseed supplies.

A 10-million bushel increase in USDA's 1,265 million bushel crush estimate was suggested on prospects for higher domestic meal consumption. The analysts also look for total soymeal exports of only 6.075 million tons given Russian credit problems.

The nine-member SERT panel is hosted by the American Soybean Association on behalf of the United Soybean Board. Members include Harry True, Frito-Lay; Bradley Karmen, USDA/ASCS; Dr. Randall Fortenberry, University of Wisconsin; Al Ambrose, Honeymead Products Co.; Neil Schneider, Bunge Corp.; Jack Bienkowski, Nabisco Brands; Russ Bragg, O.K. Foods, Inc.; Ricky Eaton, Louis Dreyfus Corporation; and Dale Durcholz, AgriVisor Services, Inc.

SP Windrowers From Ford New Holland

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Ford New Holland has introduced two new self-propelled windrowers for the 1993 season.

The new 87HP Model 2450 and the 100 HP "2550" are available with 12-foot, 14-foot, and 16-foot headers. Both windrowers feature new, quiet cab designs with improved visibility, easy-to-operate control systems, and seating.

"Their 96-inch wide swath capability is even more important," said Product Manager Joe Weicksel. "Both models have 102-inch conditioner rolls that can deposit the crop in wide, 8-foot fast-curing swaths or in windrows as narrow as 38 inches."

He said, "This results in more management flexibility and profit irrigated alfalfa growers in the cool part of the growing season. Spreading the crop out in fully conditioned, uniform swaths cuts days from curing time. That lets growers apply irrigation water days sooner for quicker regrowth."

Serviceability and routine maintenance of the new windrowers are made easier by flip-up shielding and simplified design. Hydrostatic pumps connect directly to the engine. Transmission motors direct-drive power wheels to eliminate intermediate drive parts.

Engines shut down automatically if engine coolant overheats or oil pressure drops. A floating 20-inch diameter auger handles heavy crops without plugging, said Weicksel. Conditioner roll pressure adjusts easily. The electronic instrument cluster is easy to read and large diameter tires provide a smoother ride, Weicksel adds. There's plenty of storage space for tools, spare parts, extra sickles and even a lunch cooler.

Ford New Holland 87HP Model 2450 and 100HP "2550" Speedrower windrowers are available with 12-foot, 14-foot, or 16-foot dual counter-stroke sickle headers. Crops can be deposited in windrow/swath widths of 38 to 96 inches. Cabs are quiet and feature ergonomically efficient controls and seating.

An Alternative Way To Get Rid Of Sludge?

COLLEGE PARK, MD. — Every day, Maryland produces eight to nine thousand tons of wet sludge. About one quarter of this sludge is being recycled as farmland fertilizer.

While application continues on the state's dwindling farmland, Maryland is looking for alternative areas to put the sludge. Forestland may be an alternative.

"A prime concern with sludge application to forestland," said Marla McIntosh, from the University of Maryland College Park, "is the fate of nutrients in the sludge, especially nitrogen."

As part of an ongoing regional project partially supported by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, she is looking at how sludge can be applied to forestland and still be environmentally safe.

After applying sludge to forestland, McIntosh looks at nitrate levels in the soil water — the water in the soil located above the groundwater. This may be different from farmland, she said.

You cannot extrapolate from research done on farmland, McIntosh said. The rich organic material in the layer of the leaf litter may immobilize — prevent from moving into the groundwater — sludge-borne nitrogen, therefore decreasing the amount of nitrogen that can leach into the groundwater.

Forestland has other advantages over farmland as well: sludge can be applied year-round, forests are more accessible because they are often located near municipalities, and there is less concern with contaminating the food supply, McIntosh said.

Applying municipal sludge to forestland has been quite successful on the West Coast. The nutrients in the sludge have benefitted the timber industry by improving tree growth. However, Maryland forests are very different from those on the West Coast, so local research is needed.

Results of sludge application are site specific, McIntosh said. "You cannot generalize to other areas." In fact, she has not found improved growth in her study. Researchers in Pennsylvania and New Hampshire, also participating in the regional project, got different results as well.

McIntosh applied three different sludge concentrations — low, medium, and high — to a plot of trees at the Central Maryland Research and Educational Center in Clarksville.

Nitrogen increased slightly in the soil water with low sludge concentrations and returned to normal after a short time, McIntosh said. However, the medium and high concentrations resulted in soil water with above acceptable nitrogen levels. The nitrogen levels also did not return to normal, even after two years.

To be useful, research has to be able to predict nitrogen leakage under worst-case conditions — where nitrogen is not being cycled into the ecosystem, leaving more to leach into the ground water. Maryland experienced this worst-case scenario with its two-year drought in 1986 and 1987, where rainfall was half that of normal, McIntosh said. This may have caused the lack of growth as well as the varied results in nitrogen leaching.

When water is scarce — for instance, during a drought — two things can happen: plants do not take up as much nitrogen and denitrification does not occur. Denitrification is the process by which nitrogen is released into the atmosphere as nitrogen gas and occurs only under waterlogged conditions, McIntosh said.

Although the high sludge concentration (714 lbs/acre) was twice that of the medium (357 lbs/acre), leaching levels were about the same for both. It is possible, according to McIntosh that under better conditions, such as more rain, leaching might not occur or be as high.

Nitrate leaching into the ground water is the limiting factor for applying sludge to forestland. "You need to keep a vigilant eye" on the nitrogen levels, McIntosh said. "It is important to allow them to return to the base-line levels before re-application."

Sludge application on farmland is highly regulated, but no regulations exist for forestland, McIntosh said. She hopes that her research results will aid the government in forming environmentally sound regulations.

Is Your Farm Worthy To Be Named Dairy Of Distinction? Apply Now For This 1993 Beautification Recognition Program.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

COVINGTON (Tioga County)—Already the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc. is looking forward to next year when you will again have the opportunity to receive an award for your dairy farm. This program rewards clean, well-kept farmsteads to help with consumer acceptance of dairy products in the store.

State President Dan Baker, dairyman from Covington, Tioga County, said the program has been well received, and officers look forward to an excellent program again next year.

"There are plenty of good looking dairy farms out there that have not been judged," Baker said. "And even those who have entered the selection process in the past years, without success should enter again."

The program provides rewards of recognition to producers who maintain attractive production sites. This recognition benefits the entire dairy industry, as well as individual dairymen. Not only does the favorable publicity generated by the program in the general press help bring modern farm practices to the attention of urban people, farmers use the distinction to promote their own operation or seek and hire farm labor.

Paul Nichols, the secretary for the Pennsylvania program, said applications may be sent to him any time after January 1, 1993. Deadline for applications is April 15. Judging is completed in May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. The states are divided into districts and a local committee oversees the program in each district.

A team of judges designated by the local committee visits each farm and uses a score sheet to rate each farm. In Pennsylvania, in addition to this team of judges, the sanitarian for the farm's cooperative or dealer-handler is asked to be part of the judging process.

"One of the things I always tell people is that even though they may not now have the most fancy place, they can work toward the principles of the Dairy of Distinction program," Nichols said. "By doing this, they work toward a goal that encourages consumers to use more dairy products."

Winners receive a colorful, 18x24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed at the entrance to the farmstead. In addition, as in past years, an 11x14-inch color portrait of the farm will be given by Lancaster Farming to each winning farm in the Pennsylvania program.

"As a dairy farmer, you work hard all year long, taking care of your farm," said Helen Fountain, program executive secretary. "In addition to managing your herd, there are lawns to mow, flowers to plant, and overall maintenance to keep farm buildings looking great. You deserve to be recognized for all the hard work, dedication and pride you put into your farmstead.

"It's time you and your farm received some recognition for your hard work. The coveted Dairy of Distinction award will give you that recognition, In addition your attractive farm will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, thereby stimulating milk sales and encourage public support for the dairy industry."

Active dairy farms in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are eligible to apply for the award. Criteria for Dairy of Distinction awards include: clean and attractively finished buildings; neat landscaping, ditches, roads and lands; and well-maintained fences. Cleanliness of animals, barnyard, feed areas, as well as manure management, are also taken into consideration.

Applications are available from each state's program secretary or local cooperative extension. In New York, contact Carol Weddle, New York Holstein Assn., 957 Mitchell St., Box 190, Ithica, N.Y. 14851. In New Jersey, contact Angust Knispel, RD 1, Box 325, Pittstown, NJ 08867.

In Pennsylvania, you may contact Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council, Tower Business Building, 239 Schuyler Ave., Kingston, PA 18704.

The North View Farm of the Calvin and Mary Will family in Somerset County is an example of the farms that were designated Dairy of Distinction last year. You are invited to use the application to have your farm named in 1993.

HYDRA-SPREAD

HYDRAULIC PUSH-GATE MANURE SPREADER

Made In Canada

The simple and proven design of Hydra-Spread uses reliable hydraulic power to push the load. This feature eliminates troublesome apron chains, gearbox, shafts, and sprockets and replaces them with a simple, dependable, hydraulic cylinder assembly. Sides and floor of the Hydra-Spread are made from super-slippery, corrosion-proof, high density polyethylene. The rugged efficient beater design delivers a fine uniform spread pattern. The all-welded unit frame features heavy structural sections for long life.

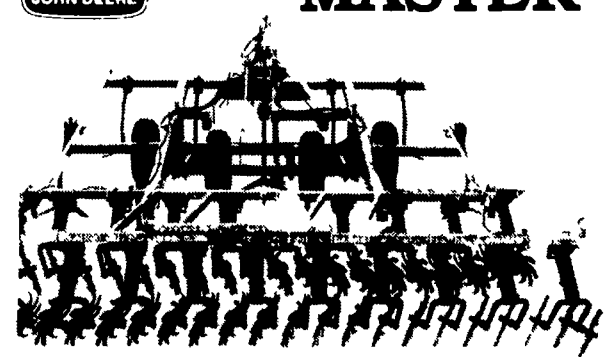
550 MULCH MASTER



We reinvented the wheel so you can leave more residue. The key to the Mulch Master's residue-saving performance is the double rank of patented cupped-tooth incorporator wheels. Their churning, digging action kicks buried residue back up to the surface Many field tests actually show higher residue levels after a Mulch Master pass.

Get Comforting Heat and Efficiency.

The Mahoning Outdoor Multi-Fuel Furnaces provide thermostat controlled heat by economically burning wood, coal or fuel oil The furnace is placed 25-100 feet outside the structure to be heated, connections between the furnace and building are buried underground Wood or coal is the primary burning fuel lasting 8-12 hours in the furnace For convenient, automatic firing the separate oil burner combustion chamber can provide heat until wood or coal burning is desired Both Wood/Coal & the Fuel Oil burners are enclosed to heat the same water tank The purpose of the firebox is to heat the water-filled tank surrounding the outside unit, this heated water is then circulated through underground pipes into your home A heating coil is installed inside your existing heat system The thermostat controls the blower which picks the heat off the coils and delivers warm air through existing ducts and registers There are safeties which eliminate the danger of over-pressurizing the system and automatic shutdown in case of a power failure The Mahoning Outdoor Furnace can also be connected to an existing hydronic heating system, that operates at 180° F or less, using fin tube baseboard, cast iron radiators or hanging hydronic heaters Only the thermostat and heating coils are installed inside your home, eliminating open fire dangers, smoke, dust and messy kindling wood boxes Adjust the thermostat for the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace to your comfort setting and it automatically controls the water pump and blower to circulate heat to your home You may set the thermostat for your existing heat system to back-up the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace when not in operation or in case the firebox is left to burn out An Aquastat senses the temperature of the water in the outside unit and automatically adjusts the combustion rate to maintain the correct temperature (normally 180 degrees)

Hot Water too...!

A Mahoning Outdoor Furnace is a heat exchanger By running a cold water line from your home to the outside unit, fresh household cold water can be heated and returned to the hot water plumbing in the house A tempering valve adjusts the hot water at the faucets to a range of 120° to 160° This boiler system will adapt to any existing plumbing Heat your pool & hot tub with energy generated by a Mahoning Outdoor Furnace!

IXL
Anti-friction Metal Conditioner

Efficiency is our Newest Resource

Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction

A metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL will give your equipment priceless protection. IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. IXL is specifically designed to be used in: (NEW) and (USED) gasoline & diesel engines, compressors, automatic & manual transmissions, hydraulics, gear boxes, bearings of all types, turbos, pumps, and much more. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats all ferrous metals 3 to 5 microns deep, thereby making the metal surfaces harder, denser and smoother. These results are minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life. IXL reduces heat, friction, and wear, up to 75% without changing tolerances, reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL, also helps maintain and recondition seals and gaskets, by keeping these items pliable, firm, and flexible. It will help prevent leaks, IXL is not a lubricant fortifier, such as PTFE, Moly, or graphite. IXL is biodegradable, NON-TOXIC and environmentally safe. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today.

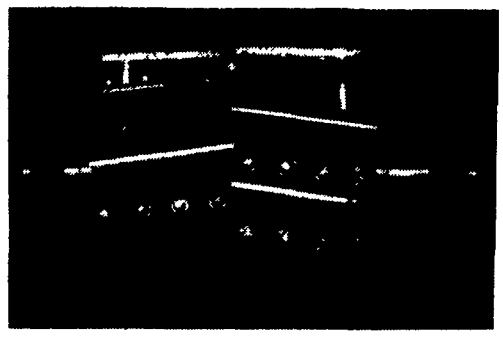
THE CLAAS HARVESTER

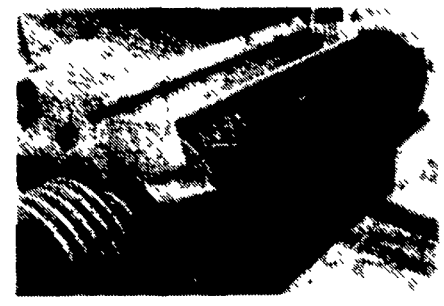


MAXIMUM FEED QUALITY

To ensure maximum feed quality from maize it is vital to crack every kernel. Digestion of uncracked maize falls as the maize becomes drier Independent trials have shown the Claas corn cracker to be close to 100% effective From the cylinder the corn passes through the two large diameter rollers with saw tooth profiles The rollers run at different speeds to intensify the grinding effect and open up each kernel It is a fairly tough process so the latest generation of corn crackers take account of the wear involved on the rollers. Nothing can reduce the wear but Claas have cut the cost of repair by making the outer sleeve replaceable. The shaft, drive pulley and bearings can all be reused which cuts down repair bills dramatically. Adjusting the distance between the two rollers is accomplished by turning two handles, easily accessible behind the cab. In no time at all the degree of cracking can be matched to the ripeness of the crop

RELIABILITY

The CLAAS Cutterbox is a unique balanced design using 2 knives in a V configuration. This forces the cutting action toward the center instead of the outside. This is the secret of their horsepower requirement and good quality of cut.



The CLAAS® Quadrant 1200 square baler — The new standard equipment for commercial operators

CLAAS doesn't have to sell a commercial operator on the advantages he gets from large, densely-packed square bales.

Yes, the Quadrant 1200 delivers the density commercial operators want. Yes, its bales inhibit spoilage by keeping the air out. Yes, they preserve quality because they minimize nutrient loss.

The 1200 also offers the high production capacities you demand. Its 4 ft x 2¼ ft x up to 8 ft. long bales effectively increase storage space and dramatically increase transport capacities — all at a high productivity rate. And you know what this means to your bottom line.

The Quadrant makes easy work of dry hay, haylage and silage crops —whatever you've got. And it bales as much of it as you've got.

CLAAS's shaft-driven knotters have earned a worldwide reputation for reliability and low maintenance Other notable features are its 3-stage pre-chamber, 78" wide pickup, powerful transmission, heavy-duty worm gear, 1000 rpm pto, hydraulic density control, capacity for up to 24 balls of sisal or plastic twine, and of course 6 dependable CLAAS shaft-driven knotters.

Production capacity Convenience handling and storage. Economical transport. Density and quality. A better bottom line.

For more information about the Quadrant and how it can meet your commercial needs, contact the CLAAS dealer listed below.

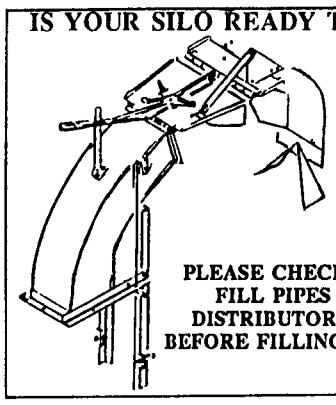
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

CONCRETE REASONS WHY A NEW POURED CONCRETE SILO IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT...

A. Enhancement of cash flow. Improved forage quality results in consistent, and increased milk production.

B. "Safe Silo" Our silos meet or exceed industry standards, reducing/ protecting lender liability.

C. Initial Cost. Used or cheap pre-fab silos may have a lower initial cost, but based upon useful life, the new poured concrete silo will have a lower annual cost: due to longer life and lower maintenance costs.

D. Residual Value. Our new, poured concrete silos are built for "generations of use", and enhance the future value of the farm.

E. Storage Losses Reduced. Poured concrete silos consistently out-perform all other methods of storing and preserving the total digestible nutrients in forage crops.

F. Protecting Forage Quality. Oxygen and heat cause the most damage to stored silage and haylage. Our poured concrete silos are the very best system to PROTECT YOUR FORAGE QUALITY... "NOBODY PROTECTS FORAGE QUALITY LIKE WE DO...NOBODY"

NO USED SILOS!
NO REBUILT SILOS!
NO PREOWNED SILOS!

"I switched to AminoTek Dairy Pellets from a cob chop mix in 1991. My cows cleaned the pellets up as good as my cob-chop mix. However, I got a jump in milk right away. In one week my cows were up 5 pounds/head/day. My production went up and just stayed there. The highest average I got was 68 pounds a day. I was never close to that before feeding AminoTek. My butterfat stayed about the same, 3.6, for the '92 year. For the past year my cows have not gone below 60 pounds and this fall my test went up to 3.9 and even 4.0.

My fresh cows are cleaning very good and they just take off in milk., My herd health, since feeding AminoTek, is real good. I thought with my jump in milk, that my reproduction would get worse, but it hasn't. With the great service Sensenig gives and the results from the AminoTek Dairy Program, I am very happy."

"My December milk average was 77.1 pounds."

"I started milking cows in March of 1992. The herd I bought was being fed a TMR, mineral program. The RHA was 21,000, so I was hoping to keep close to that by individually feeding the cows. At first, the biggest difference was that my butterfat dropped from 3.6 to 3.4, but surprisingly the milk held pretty good. Some mid-lactation cows even picked up.

As the cows are drying off and coming fresh, they are taking off and peaking very good. My December milk average was 77.1 pounds. My RHA has climbed back over 21,000 and should keep going if my calving interval keeps going down.

My breeding with the new herd was my biggest problem, but the past few months it is going the other way, and things are looking real good. With the way they are milking and breeding now, I hope 1993 will be a good year."

Cyanamid Relocates Ag Products Telesales Office

WAYNE, N.J. — The TeleSales Department of Cyanamid's Agricultural Products Division has been relocated to Des Moines, Iowa, it was announced by the company here.

This location places the TeleSales Operation closer to its customers and to Cyanamid's Midwest regional office, which is also located in Des Moines.

In addition, the TeleSales Operation has been reorganized and staff size has been expanded to better service Cyanamid's more than 200 Associate AgriCenter™ dealers.

According to Bill Griffith, vice president, agricultural products division, "Quality customer service is an integral part of all our operations. The relocation and reorganization of the TeleSales Operation supports and strengthens this commitment."

Cyanamid markets its products to more than 2,500 AgriCenters nationwide. Prior to the reorganization, the TeleSales Department supported the field sales representatives, who in turn serviced all the AgriCenters.

According to Leon Troutman, manager of the TeleSales Department, "Cyanamid took a look at the entire AgriCenter support network and realized that our field sales force couldn't adequately service all the 2,500 dealers for the long term. We identified Associate AgriCenters, which had specialized needs, and developed a new support network including the TeleSales account representatives, to better service them."

As part of the new support network, the TeleSales associates are given extensive training in servicing the technical and business needs of the Associate AgriCenters.

"In addition," said Troutman, "the expanded operation will enable us to return telephone inquiries within one hour, and follow up faster and more efficiently. In addition, the knowledge and experience gained by the TeleSales associates in these positions will better prepare them when they are eventually reassigned as field sales representatives."

For more information, contact American Cyanamid Company, TeleSales Operation, 4900 University Avenue, Suite 202, West Des Moines, IA 50266, (800) 942-0500.

FPPF Polar Power

Keeps Your Diesel Running In The Worst Winter Cold!

Fuel filters, separators do nothing to keep diesel fuel from the waxing or gelling that blocks up and clogs fuel lines and filters.

FPPF Polar Power contains FPPF's Fuel Power and FPPF's Polarized Diesel Fuel Flow Improver, the industry's leaders. It will keep your diesel running in the worst winter cold: lowering the pour-point, totally dispersing water, eliminating gum/varnish...outperforming all other additives and at lower cost.

POURED SOLID CONCRETE

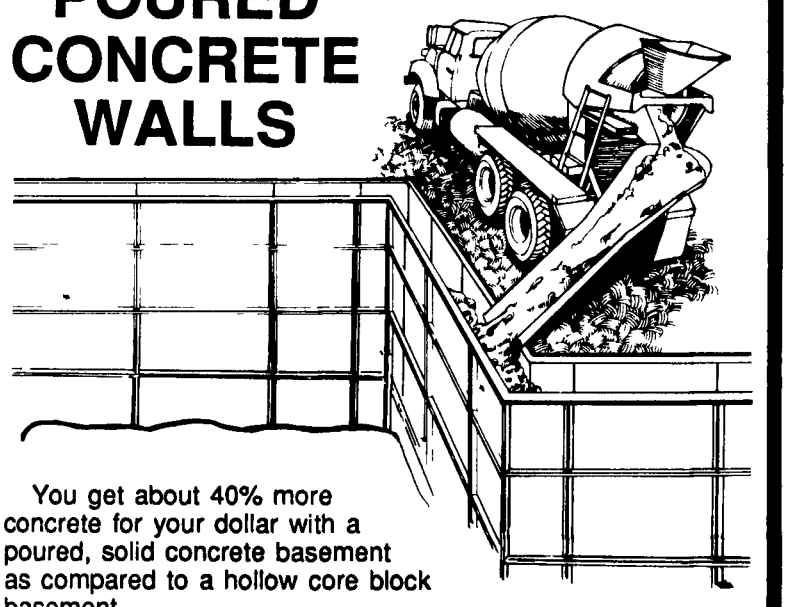
START WITH THE BEST!

POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement.

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser. What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic ... there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration.

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced.

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls
- Cistern Walls
- Concrete Decks
- Concrete Pit Tops

PUBLIC AUCTION

112.8 ACRE YORK COUNTY FARM

SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1993

At 12:00 Noon

Located just south of Red Lion in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pa.

Directions: From Red Lion follow Rt. 24 to Pleasant View Rd. T.L. Property on the left watch for signs.

Here is an excellent opportunity to purchase a historic farm that has 80 tillable acres that are gently rolling, in full cultivation with good conservation practices. A quiet valley has open land with a spring fed stream. (Good for pasture land) some woodland. This farm has not had animals for years but would be a great place for animals of any type.

Historical Note!

This home is in need of work but this huge structure sits by the stream and was known as the Sechrist Mill. It operated through the 1800s by water power grinding grains for local residents. The water wheel is no longer there but the basic structure is the same. In approximately 1900 it was converted to a residence and the water wheel ceased operating. The barn is a large structure in average condition with many possibilities. New roof last year. (nice barn) Another Historic Note: Neighbors say that years ago gold found on the farm prompted a mining attempt. Mining costs outweighed profits it is told and now the area is farmed over. Owners & auctioneers make no warranties to such claims and are printed for historical interest only.

If you are interested in a good agricultural farm, historical site or just a good sound investment of over 100 acres here is your opportunity. Call for details.

10% down day of auction, balance in 60 days.

REAL ESTATE — Selling At 12:00 Noon

This 131.098 acre farm, located in Wheatfield Township offers endless potential to the agriculturist as well as to the developer. Its 83 tillable acres are made up of soil types Calvin, Kreamer and Ellibar. This farm is currently under good conservation practices and very productive in grass, corn and grain. 3859.81 ft. of road frontage on Rt. T347, opens the door to endless development potential.

The approximately 48 acres of woodland offers a valuable stand of mixed hardwood timber as well as some of Perry County's best deer and turkey hunting.
